Auctioneer:—"What am I offered for this beautiful bust of Robert Burns?"

Man in Crowd:—"That ain't Burns . . . that's Shakespeare."

Auctioneer:—"Well, folks, the joke's on me. That shows what I know about the Bible."

Auctioneer

The man who proclaims with a hammer that he has picked a pocket with his tongue.

AMBROSE BIERCE: The Devil's Dictionary, 1906.

The following appeared in a rural weekly paper:

It is reported that one of the fastidious newly married ladies of this town kneads bread with her gloves on. This incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on, and unless some of the delinquent subscribers to this "Old Rag of Freedom" pony up before long, he will need bread without a damn thing on, and Dallas is no Garden of Eden in the winter time."

Here it comes out of the second floor of the Barn, the tall lookout tower, for erection on the Auction grounds so that spotters can watch the bidding and see that no waving hand is missed by the auctioneer. Storage space in the Barn, devoted all winter to tents and planks and standards, refrigerators and tables for the booths, can now be used for storage of things to be auctioned over the block.

(Watch it, that tower's heavy!) Grounds committee started work June 16, and has been working ever since. Ziba Smith, Tony Hudak, Stefan Hellersperk and Robert Casselberry are co-chairmen.
