

Rev. Yost's Group Leaves Rome, Heads North To Fly Home After Tour

Yesterday, Rev. Robert D. Yost, with Jane and Tucker Graham, left Rome for Florence, where they expect to remain until Saturday. The next place to be visited is Milan, still in Italy, before starting on Monday for Switzerland.

Four days based in Zurich will be followed by four days in Paris, as the tourists move north in anticipation of the flight home late in August. Amsterdam is one of the ports of call, August 16 to 19.

In Scotland, where the famous Musical Festival is held in Edinburgh, the travellers find they have to compromise on lodgings. Everything in Edinburgh is booked solid for the festival, with not a cranny left for visitors, in spite of plans having been laid for the trip way back at Christmas time. Glasgow is the closest place where accommodations can be had, an hour's drive from the festival.

August 21, the travelers go to London, and August 25 they start for home by Pan-American.

The threat of a strike on Pan-American is haunting them. The latest extension of time before the threatened strike is August 24. Could be they will all enjoy a boat trip back to the United States after all, something which was not contemplated because of the time element.

In a trip of this type, explains Jane's mother, Mrs. Thomas Graham of Shavertown, you have to travel light, not only because of limitations on weight of luggage, but because clothing has to be the drip-dry variety, with travelers keeping up with their laundry every single night. Non-crushable dresses, basic designs which can be perked up with a bit of costume jewelry, a pair of frivolous heels for evening, but sensible flatties for sight-seeing.

In an itinerary which takes in so many countries and such a wide variety of climates, the clothes problem is a real challenge. One reason for turning down the idea of going by boat one way, was the realization that dressing for dinner every night on a boat would require too much clothing, for which there would be no necessity later on in the trip.

Over three weeks in Germany at the beginning of the trip gave a marvelous background for understanding of current affairs. The group even got into East Berlin, where travellers must go by bus, carefully watched if they expect to get out again. The Berlin Wall and the Brandenburg Gate have been immortalized in color photos, but as Tucker said, everything in East Berlin had to be photographed from the windows of a bus.

Frank O. Heidere, 86, Buried At Fern Knoll

Funeral services for Frank Otto Heidere of Fernbrook were conducted Monday afternoon from the Williams Funeral Home, Rev. Frederick Eidam officiating. Burial was at Fern Knoll.

Mr. Heidere, 86, died Friday morning at his home after a long illness. Retired for the past thirteen years from employment as tile-setter with the Anthracite Tile and Marble Co. of West Pittston, Mr. Heidere had lived in Fernbrook since 1941. His wife, the former Anna Schultze, died ten years ago.

A native of Hamburg, son of the late Edward and Maria Bock Heidere, he came to this country from Germany nearly forty years ago, settling in Philadelphia for five years, then moving to Kingston.

He was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Shavertown, and Masonic Lodge Hermann of Philadelphia.

He leaves three children: Walter and Mrs. Elsa Fischer, both at home; Mrs. Hannah Penn, New Rochelle, N. Y.; a brother Gustav, remaining in Hamburg; a grandson Frank Fischer, in the Philippines.

Rev. Yost has some connections in Europe which permitted his group to have some experiences denied to casual tourists who must skim the surface.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham plan to drive down to New York to meet the plane. That is, they plan to meet the plane if the air strike is postponed.
