New Monroe Manager

WILLIAM C. TEEL

William C. Teel, Grandview Avenue, Goss Manor, succeeds Otto Weyand, Trucksville, as branch manager of Monroe Calculating Machines in Wilkes-Barre.

The family moved to Dallas in June from Neptune, N. J. where he managed the Monroe office since 1950. Active in Rotary and the Masons, he is also an energetic fireman, and was on the board of Wall Township Fire Commissioners in New Jersey.

He is a veteran of the Pacific theater in World War II, and was mustered out of the army with the rank of Staff Sergeant. He joined Monroe Calculating Machine in 1946.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Teel are enthusiastic about Dallas. Their three-year old son, David, is too young to be interested in a community, but he enthusiastically answers the phone for his mother.

Mr. Teel finds time among other activities to enjoy fishing and do-it-yourself crafts around the house.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Paniczko, were Mrs. Margaret Bosquett and son, John, North Arlington, N. J.

Cleopatra Pinned Down

Could Cleopatra have tacked together her trousseau with a safety pin? Yes. We're inclined to think of the safety pin as a strictly modern invention, but according to the Book of Knowledge, a crude form of safety pin was in common use in the lands around the Mediterranean centuries before the beginning of the Christian era. Archeologists have unearthed safety pins made 2500 years ago, constructed on the same basic principles still used today, and since Cleopatra lived only about 2000 years ago, she certainly could have used one of these pins if she'd had a mind to. Or if there had been any real point to it.

"Old Glory" Quite Old

The ensign of the United States, officially adopted by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1777, is the oldest national flag now flying, except one. It is older than the flag of Great Britain, of Spain, of the tricolor of France — of every other national flag in the world today, except that of Denmark.
