Birthday Musings From A Retired Minister Approaching His Century

Rev. Grove Armstrong submits this poem written by a retired Free Methodist minister who is a guest at the Gerry Free Methodist Home in Gerry, N. Y. Rev. Armstrong says, ',I thought you might be interested. He writes one every year."

Rev. Perfecto Romero will speak Wednesday, August 22, at 7:45 at BIRTHDAY MUSINGS the Dimock Campground as part of the Wilkes-Barre District Christian I've reached another birthday, Social Concerns Program of the This makes me ninety-five. And we who come to Gerry Bring with us what we are, We may bring a lot of sunshine We should not look to others As the source of being blest, But bring our own rejoicings And share them with the rest. Old age is little different From the lives that we have known. It is really the reaping Of the seeds that we have sown. I have long been contemplating The nearing of life's end; And resolved that I would meet it Not as enemy, but Friend. So, with a smile of welcome, I agree each opening day And ask God's blessing on it As though 'twas here to stay. And then proceed to live it As at any other time And find it quite intriguing And sometimes near sublime God's blessing on the aged Is the sweetest thing we've known. To feel that Christ still loves us, That we are still his own. I have no way of knowing What the future has in store, But today is all important -Why ask for knowing more. Each day I'm moving nearer Toward the setting of life's sun And hope to hear my Savior Saying sweetly, "Child, well done.
