memorial Library Auction, were sold Saturday morning, to a woman who drove up from Athens, Georgia, to visit her sister, Mrs. Charles James.

Mrs. Robert A. Lumley, finishing requirements for her Masters Degree at Athens, gave as one of her required talks in the course in education, a dissertation on the Library Auction, saying that it was a bit of Americana that merited, and received, widespread interest, an annual event noted all over the country.

Mrs. Lumley, the former Blanche Caswell, sister of Hannah Caswell James, had with her children Mary Frances and Gwendolyn, plus the family dog Chester. Joining the family for breakfast on Jackson Street Thursday morning were M/Sgt. and Mrs. Ward Wheeler, with Cynthia and William, from Glen Burnie, Md.; Dr. and Mrs. Cyril Scott and Audrey, from Kalamazoo, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Calvert, with Billy, Tommy and Betty Ann, travelling with the Wheelers from Glen Burnie. Some of the neighborhood children, lured by the aroma of trying eggs and bacon,

Will Open Antique Shop On Monday

Francis Scriber, well known in the field of decorating, will open an antique shop on Monday at the corner of Overbrook and Ferguson Avenues. The Stonegate is identified by a distinctive sign.

Scriber free-lances in New York, where he has arranged window displays for I. Miller Shoes and Sheril-Wagner, and has executed ballet sets for several companies, including the Boston Ballet. For five years he has arranged settings for Wilkes-Barre Ballet Guild productions, Finnian's Rainbow setting for the Little Theatre some years ago was one of his first important stage sets.

He has been working with Better House, coordinating wallpaper, woodwork and decor.

He advises antique furniture for young couples planning their homes, for several reasons: Chairs are functional, they are sturdy, they go with everything, and they are reasonable.

All in all, reports Mrs. James, it was quite a gang.

Dog Man Strikes

Thomas E. Marshall, Agent for Bureau of Animal Industry, made eight arrests in Jackson and Lehman Townships, Wednesday, August 8, for failure of owners to have 1962 dog licenses. He was accompanied by Edward Godoski, Game Warden.

Recently Marshall made similar arrests in Dallas and Kingston Townships, but has made none in Dallas Borough.

He will return to this area in the near future to make more drives.

Silver Leaf Club

Kunkle Silver Leaf Club will meet with Mrs. Ralph Elston Tuesday evening August 21.
