Two New Schools Set Stage For Rapid Advancement Of Area

With two magnificent new modern high schools in the Back Mountain, the area is prepared to offer scholastic advantages to residents, new as well as old. Not often are two high schools of such calibre located within a few miles of each other.

Educational facilities for older children are frequently the deciding factor in the search for a good place to settle down and raise a family.

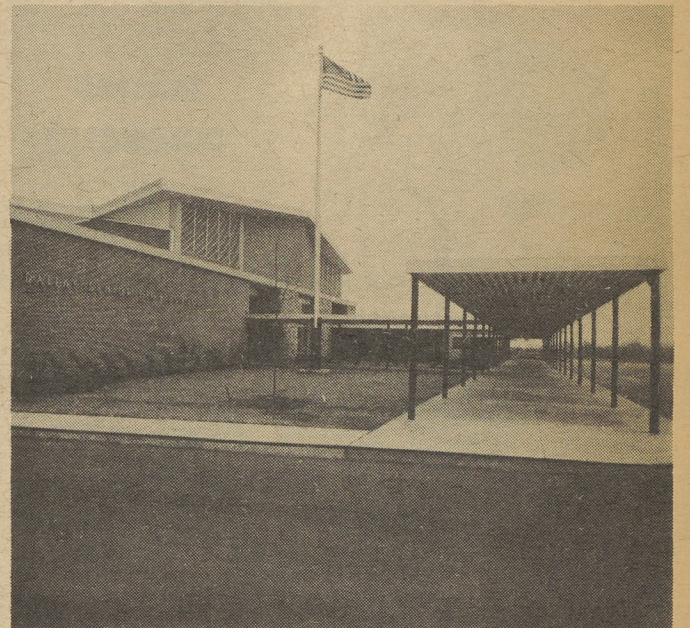

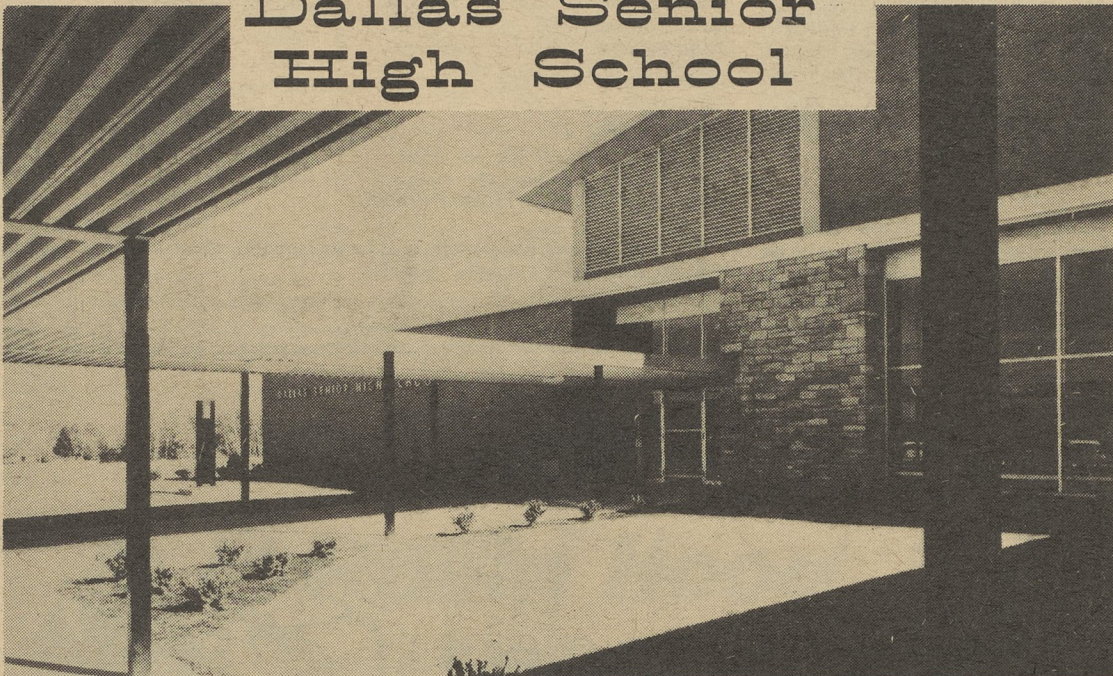

When educational advantages can be combined with the magnificent scenery offered by the Back Mountain, the clear mountain air, the nearness to a large population center as well as the remoteness and quiet of the country, the area has much to offer the prospective home owner, attracting the kind of new people who will be an asset to the community.

Dallas High School has already proved itself over a period of a year.

Lake-Lehman will open its new Junior Senior High School within a few weeks.

The two high schools constitute a long stride forward in community planning.
