R. J. Davenport Dies Suddenly

Funeral services for Renald J. Davenport are scheduled for Saturday from the Bronson Funeral Home, where the casket will be taken from the family homestead after friends have called this afternoon and evening.

Burial will be at Memorial Shrine, following services conducted by Rev. Robert Webster, Clark's Summit, and Rev. William H. Hughes, pastor of Sweet Valley Church of Christ, to which Mr. Davenport belonged.

Mr. Davenport, 58, died two hours after admission Tuesday at noon to Nesbitt Hospital. For some little time he had not been feeling up to par, and on Tuesday morning found himself unable to go to the pharmacy which he owned and operated on Wyoming Avenue, Kingstons. Several weeks ago he had been hospitalized after a fall in his drugstore, in which he injured his back.

Originally the pharmacy had been located where Stull Brothers now occupy the entire corner of Union Streets and Wyoming Avenue. The family residence is on West Union Street, and the family home in Sweet Valley, to which Renald fell heir when his father Daniel died.

Mr. Davenport was a native of Sweet Valley, son of the late Daniel and Edith Moss Davenport.

He obtained degrees in his proression from Columbia University, after taking academic work at Columbia upon graduation from Kingstons High School.

He was a member of Luzerne County Pharmaceutical Association, and vice president of Kingston Board of Health and Kingston Kiwanis Club.

Surviving are: his widow, the former Merle Naugle of Sweet Valley; three sons: Carroll, superintendent of junior music, Norwich High School, Norwich, N. Y.; Renald, senior at Lake-Lehman High School and Terry, freshman at Kingston High School, both at home; one grandson, Scott Allen Davenport.

Services Today At 11 For Mrs. Jennie Fitch

Mrs. Jennie Fitch, 77, resident of Kingston, and mother of Ralph Fitch, Dallas, died Monday night at Lackawanna Convalescent Home at Ransom after a long illness.

She will be buried this morning in Fitch Cemetery, Orange, following services conducted at 11 by Rev. Robert Webster from the Snowdon Funeral Home in Kingston.

She was a native of Center Moreland, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller, but spent most of her life in Dallas.

She leaves four daughters: Mrs. Laura Shook, Levittown; Mrs. John Koehler, Arlington, Va.; Mrs. Paul Moore and Mrs. Fred Root, Kingston; a son Ralph, Dallas; a sister, Mrs. Josephine Miller, Luzerne; twelve grandchildren, six great-grandchildren.
