A Kibbutz In The Land Of Israel Offers Communal Work And Living

Janice Bronson, Sweet Valley, who expects to enter Columbia University this fall to work toward a Masters Degree in Guidance, had as a recent guest her room-mate in San Bernardino. Mary Jo Ellis, a teacher in the same school system as Janice, had tales to tell about her ten-week stay in Israel.

Miss Ellis, graduate of Brigham Young University in Utah, felt that she had a real stake in Israel. Mornings trace their ancestry back to the Lost Tribes of the Old Testament. In working in a Kibbutz, a communal village on the Syrian border north of the Sea of Galilee, Mary Jo had a feeling that she was returning to the land of her fathers.

The Kfar Nassar Kibbutz houses about 200 people, who all make their contribution of work, household tasks and farming. Children sleep and eat apart from their parents, but are with them for perhaps six hours a day.

Days are long at the Kibbutz, starting before dawn. The 120 Americans who were assigned to the various Kibbutz habitations for purpose of study and work, for the most part came from New York, very few from the West Coast.

All hands work, wearing jeans and flat shoes, seldom dressing. Mary Jo wore a dress just once while in residence.

The Kibbutz installations are almost entirely self sufficient. While in Israel, Miss Ellis did a considerable amount of sight-seeing. In that land, it is perfectly safe and perfectly respectable to hitch-hike, the only practical method of getting anywhere. Guards patrol the borders.

A unique contribution by Miss Ellis was instruction in ballet, her pupils performing during evenings devoted to folk-singing and cultural pursuits.

Her former room-mate, Janice, is also interested in dancing. It was Janice who organized the Kick-Line when she was a student at Wilkes College. After a year spent in teaching second grade in San Bernardino, where schools are waging a losing battle in keeping abreast of the mushrooming population, she says Columbia University offers a breathing space, and also a chance to take up ballet herself in New York, if she can find time.

Janice will be in New York all this school year and possibly for an added summer session. She expects to teach upon getting her Master's, and hopes to travel as widely as possible.

Mary Jo left her for her home in Sacramento several days ago. Within a few days, Janice will be at Columbia, within far easier reach of her home in Sweet Valley than she was last year while in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bronson expect to enjoy this year, with their daughter close at hand.

Lake-Lehman Has Full Faculty

Three New Members Will Teach Classes

Lake-Lehman now has its full complement of high school teachers, according to Anthony Marchakitus, high school principal. The two latest members of the faculty are Francis Wilczewski and Walter Seroka.

Mr. Wilczewski, a Nanticoke man, and a graduate of Kings College, with one year of teaching experience in New Jersey, will teach ninth grade English and Pennsylvania History.

Mr. Seroka, with a BA from Kings, and MA degrees Lehigh University in social studies and from Scranton University in Education, has had six years of teaching at Marymount High School in Wilkes-Barre. He will handle seventh grade English and Social Studies.

On the substitute list Mrs. Hilda Gregory, Barbara Simms' mother, will teach art during the first part of the present semester, until Jane Cornell is available early in November. Mrs. Gregory is a resident of Kingston.

On Tuesday, October 2nd at 3:01 A. M. (DST) DALLAS ORchard 4 and ORchard 5 Numbers Will Be Changed To ALL NUMBER CALLING (ANC) 6 7 5 1 8 1 6 This system, called ALL NUMBER CALLING (ANC), uses all numbers—no letters of the alphabet. It provides more than half again as many number combinations as the 2-letter-5 number system and thus helps telephone service to grow and improve as the community grows. HOW THE NEW NUMBERS LOOK . . . The new telephone numbers are divided into two parts—this is for easy remembering and accurate dialing. For example: ORchard 5-1816 becomes 675-1816 (dial 675 instead of OR5) STICK-ON NUMBER CARDS imprinted with your new number and Area Code have been mailed to you. Please place one over your present number on all your telephones. NEW TELEPHONE DIRECTORY. You will note that your new Dallas-Shickshinny directory, which lists Dallas' new 7-digit numbers, groups all ten exchanges together. (Centermoreland, Harding, Harveys Lake, Huntington Mills, Muhlenburg, Nuangola, Sweet Valley, Wapwallopen, Dallas and Shickshinny). Customers are not listed by communities but alphabetically. For example, the Joneses of Dallas are listed in the same section of the directory as the Joneses of Nuangola. The Information Block on each directory page keys the first two numbers or letters to the proper exchange area. KEEP YOUR OLD DIRECTORY FOR A WHILE. Nuangola numbers, as shown in the new directory, should not be used until October 21st; the Muhlenburg numbers until November 18th. On those dates respectively, the last four numbers of Nuangola and Muhlenburg subscribers will be changed to those shown in the September '62 Directory. A LITTLE OVER A MONTH FROM NOW. On November 18, the Dallas, Muhlenburg and Nuangola exchanges will join the nationwide Direct Distance Dialing network falling under Area Code 717. At that time, you will be able to dial your station-to-station long distance calls without the aid of an operator. COMMONWEALTH TELEPHONE COMPANY 100 LAKE ST. DALLAS
