Student Council voted November 2 to have dress-up day every other week. The date will be announced later. We know everyone will cooperate since we very seldom see ourselves without sneakers, bobby socks and regular school clothes. Who knows, maybe we won't recognize each other?

The magazine drive will soon be over; hurry and get your subscriptions. Let's make this the biggest drive ever.

Two of our Juniors, Georgia McCutcheon and Susan Kitchen, visited Penn State University November 1 and 2. They were overnight guests of two students at the girl's dormitory and attended classes with their roommates Friday morning.

The purpose of this visit was to view Penn State's Home Economics Department. They attended lectures and saw films pertaining to various phases of the department. Georgia and Susan agree that the trip was both educational and inspiring.

We proudly extend our congratulations to Charlotte Roberts, Richard Ratcliffe, and Paul Harradom for being among the semi-finalists in the nation in the National Merit

Scholarship Qualifying Test.

The College of Mineral Industries at Pennsylvania State University is offering Freshman scholarships with stipends up to $1,000 per year to encourage outstanding high school graduates to enroll in fields which are concerned with the materials upon which modern technology is dependent—especially new types of high temperature metals, nonmetals, and fuels.

General scholarships are open to students who plan to specialize in any of the ten Mineral Industries listed: Ceramic Technology, Fuel Technology, Metallurgy, Mineral Economics, Mineral Preparation Engineering, Petroleum and Natural Gas Engineering, Geological Science, Geography, and Meteorology. For details of how to apply for these scholarships see Mr. McCutcheon.

Mrs. Michel Devotes Many Hours Making Cancer Dressings At Home

Mrs. Charles Michel, Main Street, Shavertown, is one lady who believes in using her spare time in helping out her unfortunate neighbors. In the past year, Mrs. Michel has spent 204 hours at her home making cancer dressings for use by the American Cancer Society.

This is in addition to the extra hours she gives as a member of

Mrs. Charles Gozart's Dressings group which meets regularly at the Library Annex.

Mrs. Michel came here six years ago with her husband from Philadelphia, both being employed at Linear, Inc. Mrs. Michel retired four years ago and her husband, after 36 years with the firm, will retire next year.

Tommy Yarnal Uninjured When Hit By Volkswagen

Tommy Yarnal, knocked down by a small Volkswagen last Wednesday evening at dusk as he ran across Main Street in front of Grace Cave's store, got a clean bill of health from Dr. H. G. Gallagher, at a colossal supper, and was back at Dallas Borough school Thursday morning.

Mrs. J. I. Alexander, Shavertown, had with her in the Volkswagen Tommy's brother Jimmie, along with her own son, Scott. Both ninth-graders at Dallas Junior High School were returning from football practice.

Mrs. Warren Yarnal, Huntsville Road, says, "Praises be for small cars."

Tommy, 9, and in the fourth grade, is substituting for Jimmie as a paper carrier during football season. He was just finishing his beat on Wednesday.
