 A. J. Moreck, Pioneer Avenue, is looking forward to spring when he the list! The Detwilers attended a Faculty Womens' Dinner at Wilkes College Saturday evening and after the dinner decided to go for a cup of coffee. What did they do—and where did they go for it? Prof. Detwiler is a member of the Anthracite Flying Club so they boarded the Cessna 172 plane owned by the club and flew to Reading, only to find upon their arrival that the coffee shop they wanted to patronize was closed for the night. But that didn't deter them! They headed for Harrisburg—only to find that their particular coffee shop was also closed; so they headed back to the Forty-Fort Airport. Where do you think they got their cup of coffee—you guessed it, at home. Prof. Detwiler said he wanted to get in some night flying experience—which accounted for the trip.

Just could not close this column without an article that should have appeared last Thursday, but printers are merciless when they need space. Twenty-one years ago on Valentine's Day, a little baby girl entered our hearts and our home. Make yours the most worthwhile you can."
