BOWLING NEWS

Last week's issue of The Dallas Post was so full of Easter advertising and news, that when it came right down to a minimum of space left and three times as much "stuff" to go in it, I reluctantly, to be sure, relinquished the "bowling space" for news that could not possibly be held for another week. Sorry, but that's the way it goes sometimes! However, here is the complete news of last week's matches in addition to the current figures. Thank you!

Farm Calendar

Nitrogen Helps Grass — Nitrogen applied to bluegrass pasture before the grass begins to grow gives it a running start, declares Wayne Hinrich, Penn State extension agronomist. He says bluegrass treated with nitrogen will be ready for pasturing about two weeks earlier than grass not so fertilized.

Prune Shrubs — If you have any shrubs that have never been pruned and have a lot of dead wood, A. O. Rasmussen, Penn State extension ornamental horticulturist, urges cutting the whole shrub off 2 or 3 inches above ground, fertilizing with two handfuls of 5-10-10 working fertilizer into the soil and watering well.

Care for Baby Pigs — About one-third of all pigs born never reach market, says Les Burdette, extension livestock specialist at Penn State. Cold, drafty, wet farrowing houses cause much trouble with baby pigs. This high death rate could be reduced by better management.

Safety for Family — Safety is a family affair, reminds Ralph Patterson, Penn State extension agricultural engineer. Especially on the farm, a family's very existence depends on the well-being and safety of every member.

4-H's Residence — Today's 4-H Club members come from three areas: 51 percent from farm homes; 29 percent from rural but non-farm homes; and 20 percent of the membership reside in urban and suburban homes.
