MARILYN WOODLING, EDITOR
MARY ANN KUCHEMBA

First annual Journalism Club Banquet will be held Saturday evening at the Europa Lounge in Wilkes-Barre. Editors and branch editors of the "Crusader" and "Troubador", for 1963-64 will be announced. This year's editors of the publications officially present their editorships to the new editors. Included in the Journalism Club was the newspaper staff, the magazine staff, the columnists, the handbook staff, and the creative writing club.

Mrs. Hicks, Society editor of the Dallas Post, will be the guest speaker. Mr. Marchakitus, high school principal, will also speak.

The 1963 "Roundtable" arrived last week. This year the "Roundtable" has a black and gold cover with the school seal. Co-editors Marie Roginski and Rosemary Pond and Assistant Co-editors Pat Zbick and Eunice Oney were under the guidance of Miss Sullivan, Miss Baer, Miss Nardone, and Mr. Gulbish, yearbook sponsors.

On May 17 the "Yearbook Auto-graph Hop", was held in the high school cafeteria. Admission was by yearbook. The yearbook sponsors also chaperoned this event.

Plans are being made for the annual P.-T.A. sponsored Athletic Band Banquet, which will be held in the high school cafeteria on June 5. The speaker for this event has not yet been selected. William Frey is general chairman.

Nadine Van Tuyle Wins Top Legion Award

Miss Nadine Van Tuyle, one of Mt. Zion's most promising students, was recently awarded the "Distinguished Achievement Award" by the John D. Stark Post 542 American Legion Auxiliary of West Pittston.

An eighth grade student of West Pittston Junior High School, she received the highest percentage on the basis of these qualifications:

"Honor, courage, scholarship, leadership, service and Americanism." Nadine is active in the Mt. Zion church and Sunday School, and sings in the choir. She is the daughter of Leon and Mildred Van Tuyle, Apple Tree Road, Mt. Zion. Nadine is a niece of Dr. and Mrs. James Hutchison, Abington, who were well-known Dallas people.

Honored At Roberts

Miriam Oliver, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Oliver, Dallas, and a senior at Roberts Wesleyan College at Chili, N. Y., was honored by election to Alpha Kappa Sigma, May 10. The English major plans to teach after graduation. Exercises are set for May 27. Her brother, Melvin, a freshman, was named to the Dean's List.

amount of candy during the recent Junior Easter Candy Sales Campaign. Other recipients of high salesmanship awards were Bill Ehret, Frank Sebolka, and Carol Lamoreaux. Cathy Crispell was winner of the drawing for a watch.

Senior Class has expressed its appreciation to everyone who helped to make their Washington Trip a success. A special "thanks" was extended to the chaperones.

Ten Junior and Senior students met the qualifications for and have been accepted in the Lake-Lehman Chapter of the National Honor Society. The new members of the society are Mary Ann Bebey, Eileen Crene, Anthony Foster, Judy Slikmak, Irene Martin, Joseph Pauletti, Sharon Strzelczyk, and James Worth.

Dallas School Students Score Outstandingly In National Education Development Examination

Results of the National Educational Development Test administered in March were received at Dallas Junior and Dallas Senior High Schools last week. John Rosser and W. Frank Trimble, principals, have been commended for outstanding results received by students from their respective schools.

The following students received letters of commendation:

Dallas Senior High School: Judith Bergstrasser, Diane Pattison, Marilyn Moyer, Diana Pickett, Laura Jenkins, Linda Davies, Linda Castlerline, Linda Brague, Jean Fleming, Sharon Phillips, Rosemary Zekas, Jo-Ann Norrie, Susan Dingle, Ann Woolbert, David Kopetchney, Ronald Bennie, Stephen Farrar, Reese Finn, Richard Bayliss, Walter Gosart, Philip Heycock, Kit Karuzza, Keith Swisher, Nicholas Sosik, Jr., Harry Sweppenheiser, Kenneth Higgins, William Banks, David Wadas, Bruce Hopkins, Conrad Gonzalez, Robert Tempin, Robert Bray.

National Educational Development Tests are given yearly to ninth and tenth grade students in thousands of public, private, and parochial schools. Purpose of the test is to measure educational opportunity to compare with students from other schools in other parts of the country.

Specific areas measured in the test are: English usage, mathematics usage, social studies, natural sciences, and word usage.

NEDT measures something more than what a student has learned. It requires the student to use what has been learned in evaluating new ideas and solving new problems. Applying knowledge to new situations is a skill that is important to jobs, but it is particularly important in college, where a great many new opinions, ideas, and problems are presented to the student each day, and where the student is expected to work independently.

In ninth grade, 80 students wrote the NEDT test on the ninth grade level. The following is a list of what these students achieved: Thirty-four students scored 90 or better; eighteen scored from 80 to 89; twelve scored from 70 to 79; nine scored from 60 to 69; five scored from 50 to 59; three scored from 45 to 49, and one scored below 44. In the ninth grade, thirty-one students received letters of commendation for scoring higher than the 92nd percentile.

In tenth grade, 77 students wrote the NEDT test this year. The following statistics have been compiled to explain how our students have done compared with students from the nation: Of the total number who wrote the test in tenth grade, forty-six students scored 90 or better; five scored between the 80th and 89th percentile; sixteen scored between the 70th and 79th percentile; four between the 60th and 69th; five between the 50th and 59th; and only one scored under the 50th percentile. This last mark was above the 40th percentile. In tenth grade, 41.5% of the students who wrote the test received a letter of commendation for receiving a score of 94% or better.

A percentile of 90 means that this student scored a mark higher than 90 students out of a 100 in the same test, on a national average.

Scores and percentiles are averages of students who for the most part, will be planning on attending college, or advanced educational training. They are not averages or percentiles based on the entire student population. A mark of 50% means a student has achieved average results as compared to other students.

Booklets explaining the educational implications of the test were issued to each student who wrote the test, along with test results for further educational planning by the parents, students, and school personnel.
