

Mt. Zion

This is not news! — Catherine Glogowski is making a garden. Not news because Catherine Glogowski just naturally would make a garden. But when you remember the land on the opposite side of the road from the Glogowski house a few years ago you must wonder that a garden can possibly be there now.

Then it was just roadside brush, trees and stumps between Sutton Creek road and the creek down near where old Glen Echo Park used to be.

After building a neat dwelling and looking hard at the scrubby stuff on the other side, Mr. Glogowski and Catherine saw possibilities for a garden. Little by little by grubbing and digging and rooting they made a beginning. Then another year they stretched their work further. And Catherine and the boys and father when he came home from work were planting and transplanting.

Now there is a plot perhaps 200 by 50 feet under cultivation. With the enthusiasm of an explorer she said the other day, "I'm going to try an experiment. I have some blueberry seeds and am going to try to raise some!" Her garden has both food and beauty, for she will have gorgeous flowers of all colors before summer is over.

ALONG MT. ZION ROAD

On the Norman Lewis side of the road toward the Holmes house a new cellar was just excavated with one of these big yellow back-hoes that can dig straight down. Who is to build there is yet to be found out.

Two bulldozers back of Bob Krum's place have scraped a wide swath from up on the hill down to the road. They seem to be headed across the swamp following the old pipe-line and probably through Norman Lewis' oat field beyond. He remembers thirty years ago when the old pipe-line was put through. This one is bigger, and apparently calls for a clean scraped strip of land before the ditch is ever dug.

PARENTS NIGHT PROGRAM

Exeter Township PTA presented a take-off on TV program last Friday night. The assembly room was filled to capacity with people from Dymond Hollow, the Sullivan Trail, Mt. Zion and Sutton Creek roads.

Principal Edward Miles announced that the township school board was proud of the achievement of the pupils now in West Pittston High School. A word of congratulation was spoken to Nadine VanTuyke whose Americanism Award was recently announced. John Lewis, president of the Exeter Township School Board, presented $25 Bonds to Sharon Poole soon to graduate from the College Preparatory course, and to Barry Robbins of the General Course.

Program consisted of two "TV" programs, first of which was "Beverly Hillbillies" featuring Tommy Lloyd in a "tumbling act". Tommy had taken considerable gymnasium work not only school but also in the marine training program, with judo included. So when one of the hill-billy girls in the play threw him with a twist of her wrist it looked distressingly realistic!

The second "TV" program with its commercials included was called "Medics" featuring Dick Dymond as the "doctor" who had to pause periodically through the operation on patient Tommy Lloyd to give commercials. "Dr. Dymond" removed gall stones from Tommy's innards, put them in a glass jar for all to see. Also removed his appendix, snipping it off with the scissors. Then it seemed advisable to take Tommy's heart out, which the "doctor" held up for all to see. (It looked very much like one of those red plastic hearts used for collecting funds for Heart!) Rumors are that Dick Dymond himself wrote the script for this number.

The third program was a Bride and Groom number, with a shotgun wedding, voluminous make-up and costuming—and clowning.

NOTE OF GLOOM

Black-and-tan dog named Tuffy met a skunk out back the other night. Poor Tuffy scrubbed and rubbed in the grass, dug up the front yard, burrowing in the dirt. By morning the odor was faint and Tuffy's spirits were restored and he could smile again. So could his folks.
