

Dallas School Increases Faculty

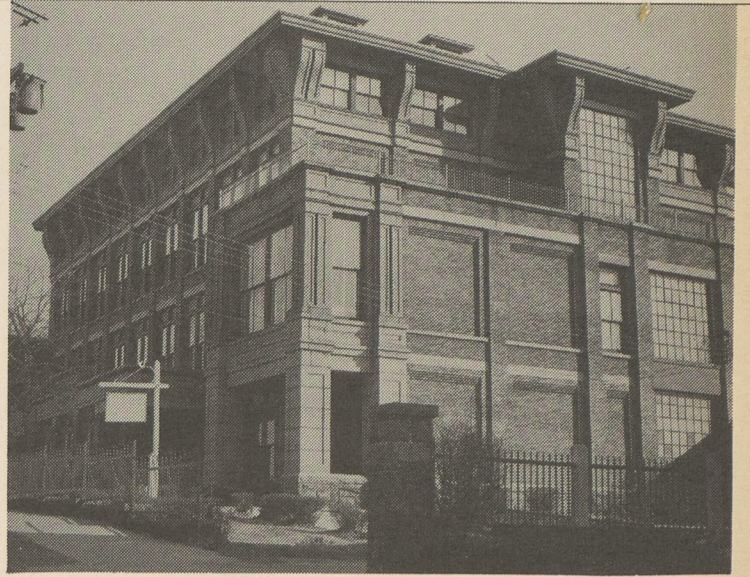

NANCY GOERINGER

EDWARD JOHN POTERA

PAUL A. KLEIN

Shown above is the Penn State University's Wilkes-Barre Center located on North Washington Street in Wilkes-Barre.

New Professional Employees In Dallas Schools

by Sam Berkey

Mrs. Nancy Goeringer, who resides at Lake Louise Farm, Dallas, is a graduate of Douglas College, New Brunswick, N. J., and holds certification in the field of home economics. She has been employed as a full-time substitute home economics teacher. Mrs. Goeringer will teach in the Dallas Senior High School.

Mr. Edward John Potera, who will teach Spanish in the Dallas Senior High School, is a graduate of Swoyerville High School and King's College. He is certificated in Spanish, French, English, and social studies.

Mr. Potera served as an instructor of English to Spanish speaking students in the School of Medicine at the Centro Colombo-Americano University (a binational cultural center in Bogota, Colombia), and has taught in the public schools of Johnson City, N. Y., Pennsville, N. J., and Jim Thorpe, Pa.

Mr. Paul A. Klein, a graduate of Coughlin High School, Wilkes-Barre, and of Wilkes College, is certificated in the field of mathematics and has had teaching experience at Kingston High School and at the Wilkes College summer and evening schools.

Mr. Klein has participated in two National Science Foundation seminars for teachers of mathematics and is a candidate for the M. S. degree at the University of Scranton

Mr. Robert D. Howells, who will teach chemistry in the Dallas Senior High School, is a graduate of Nanticoke High School, Wilkes College, and Bucknell University. He is certificated to teach the physical sciences, mathematics, and social studies.

Mr. Howells served one year as business secretary at the Wilkes-Barre Y.M.C.A., three years as director of education at the First Presbyterian Church of Wilkes-Barre, and five years as a classroom teacher at Tunkhannock and Kingston high schools.

Mrs. Frances E. Kauffman, is a graduate of Lancaster's Stevens High School, Lebanon Valley College, and is certificated to teach Latin, German, English, and history.

Mr. James L. Nicholas, who will teach business education and English at the Dallas Senior High School, is a graduate of Bloomsburg State College and will receive his Master of Arts degree in business education from New York University.

Mr. Nicholas has taught in the public schools of Wellsville, New York, Edwardsville and Kingston, Pennsylvania, and has been employed as a teacher in the Dallas Evening Extension School.

Call

The DALLAS POST

For estimates on all types of printing.

OFFSET and LETTERPRESS

674-5656

674-7676

Hurry, hurry, hurry! Time for class to begin.

Students at right enjoy favorite class—lunch!

ARE YOU

READY FOR SCHOOL??

WE ARE!!!

EVERYTHING FOR SCHOOL FROM KINDERGARTEN UP THROUGH COLLEGE.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL TROUSERS TIES—SOX

The Young Men's Shop

42 Main Street
Dallas

(Next To Grace Cave's)

MILES DISAPPEAR by TELEPHONE

So, after school starts . . . and you'd like to be with your children, do the next best thing and call them long distance. Nothing is so heart warmingly welcome as a call from home. Make it a regular habit to keep in touch by 'phone.

CT

Commonwealth Telephone Company Dallas