MT. ZION
 Dr. and Mrs. Lowell Lewis and children left Mt. Zion last Thursday to return to California after spending August visiting friends and relatives hereabouts. They were dinner guests of Dr. Lewis' sister, Mrs. Thomas Lloyd.

MISFORTUNES
 The Lloyd household had quite a scare Labor Day night when young Stevie went to run out doors, and attempted to ignore the glass storm door intervening. He crashed through the glass of the door, fortunately receiving a few scratches on his head and quite a gash in his arm. They took him to Nesbitt Hospital where three stitches served to close the wound. Brother Timmie was quite worried how they were going to get the storm door repaired!

Mildred Lloyd wrecked her car last week when a brake hose burst. Nobody was injured, for there were no passengers, and Mildred was saved by the steering wheel. Her friends are thankful Mildred's life and health were spared.

Speaking of Mildred Lloyd who lives with her sister, Mrs. Cornelius Hastie, well, I was up the hill to see Hastie's and on the way down I met Annie Dwyer, the little (she used to be little) niece of the Hasties, trudging up the hill road from the school bus. First day of school, so I stopped and asked, "Well, Annie, this your first day of school? How you like it?" And she smiled (you should see her wide smile) and said, "I like it". And then as if to give a sound reason for liking school she added, "I'm in Mr. Miles' room!" Which could be reason enough.

FROST SCARE
 We had a frost scare last Thursday night when the thermometer was down to 54, the sky was clear and the moon looked cold. So we helped Catherine get her plants up and under cover before we went to bed. Clouds gathered through the night, so the temperature stayed the same. But this was the beginning of plant readjustment time for Catherine. Besides she was getting some ready for the auction. Then our friends from West Pittston, Charles and Edna Banks and Christine, arrived. Well that is always an occasion of talk about and exchange of plants and spare parts thereof. The next day back they came, this time to bring a gorgeous Rose geranium as a contribution to the auction. What a fragrant plant!

A week ago Sunday night we had as callers Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins and four children from Wyoming. Mr. Collins was formerly with the Wyoming Valley Council of Churches as director of social services. He is now working with Henry Hess of Orange in the insurance business.

I wonder what the thousands of blackbirds that swoop in a big flock into the tree tops the other end of the pond are saying when they all talk at once. What a racket! Or what the geese veering north or south in seasonal flight honk at each other along the sky lanes. Or why the bull frog gives a shrill whistle when he plunges into the pond. What does the blue jay say when it screams in the bush? Nature all around and I don't know her language. Someone has suggested that it is man's function to give voice to nature in praise songs to the Maker. Such as: "Let everything that breathes praise the Lord" (Ps. 150)

Bina W. Johnson of College Park, Md., and her three sweet canaries have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Howard Krum. Robert Krum is taking her back home, as canaries are not allowed on a bus. I believe Bob's mother is going along also. When I was out to get this news I found that Mrs. Krum was at Priscilla's, so I went there. It gave me a chance to see the baby whom I hadn't seen for a few weeks. What a husky youngster he has become in this short time!

I was talking recently to some men about how funny my pond looks lately, red as rust and

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Esser, Follies Road, had as vacation guests, Mrs. Thomas Cook, Harrisburg, and their niece and nephew, Mary Ann and Wayne Price, who spent most of their summer vacation with their aunt and uncle.

Mrs. Arthur Morgan and Alice, Aurora, Colorado, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilcox. Mrs. Morgan is a cousin of Mrs. Wilcox.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ide were hosts at a cookout to their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Ide and four daughters from Indiana, and to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilcox, Mrs. Sarah Pealer and Ronnie Bertram along with several other guests.

State Highway Department laid a covering of stone and chips on the Chase-Lake Silkworth Road, which greatly improved its condition but for several days the dust raised by passing cars and trucks made it look like the Dust Bowl. Residents along this road were obliged to keep their doors and covered with bubbles. The man cautiously suggested that the pond might be fermenting. Horrors! I never would have anything fermenting around my place. So I retorted that more likely it was doing what I used to hear of ponds doing—working! And that's what we all do around here—work!

CARVERTON

We got some interesting news from our friends the Gelbs who live in a new house over on Carverton Heights. Their son Billie (Suppose I should get in the habit of speaking of him as William; he's in the U.S. Navy now!) has talked with his folks from where he is on shore in California. He expects to be sailing to Alaska before long. I suggested he see if he could find a nugget or two up there! Also Dr. Gelb told us he expects to be moving his office in Pittston from the Dime Bank Building to the building formerly owned by the late William Snowdon on Broad Street. Dr. Gelb has purchased the property.

Carol Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Sutton, Carverton Road, has entered the freshman class at Wilkes College. Carol has been doing very well with the organ, and it is hoped her music majoring will be highly successful.

Idetown

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hughes entertained the following at a covered dish supper on Saturday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ide, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zweier, Mr. and Mrs. William I. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. David VanFossen, all of Kingstown. Plans were discussed in connection with the arranging of plans to take a train ride to New York City via the Erie-D. L. & W. R. R. out of Scranton Saturday, October 12. This group will be given special price and anyone interested in taking this trip should call 696-1005.
