Haymarket Antiques Sale Draws Crowd On Absolutely Perfect Day

Folks who sweltered two years ago at the Haymarket Antiques Sale, or drew overcoats about them and froze last year as sudden showers scattered the crowd, enjoyed an absolutely perfect day on Saturday.

The fall circuit of antiques shows is in full swing, with a whole delegation of Back Mountain folks going to Waverly earlier in the month, and to Evans Falls September 14.

There was Mrs. Joseph Schooley yearning over a pair of green vases, waiting only for a push in the right direction to consummate the deal. "Go ahead and get them," a friend prodded, "you'll never forgive yourself if you don't. They'll add just the right touch to that new window you're planning."

Studying some of the smaller bits of china and toys of a bygone day were Melanie Frantz, Nancy Samuels, and Hope Berger.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Scott, getting ideas for next year's Library Auction, admired the polished brasses and copper kettles.

Mrs. Harold Titman can always be depended upon to patronize the Haymarket show. Mr. and Mrs. Zel Garinger were on the alert for old fashioned farm or home implements. Helen Gross, a master decorator, clucked inwardly over some of the decorated chairs which fell far short of her standards, but preserved a poker face.

Dot Ross was around, wondering what she could do with a flowered china garbion; Mrs. Arch Rutherford, Mrs. Ambrose West, Mrs. Ornan Lamb, Mrs. Hillyer, Mrs. Wicks; John and Pauline Ferguson, June Groff, Mrs. Freeman and Mrs. Levy, Mrs. Dwight Fisher, and of course Mary Frantz. Mrs. Jason Kunkle, Mrs. Don Ide, Mrs. Louise Berger, and a host of others who walked off to different parts of the grounds before they could be offered a pencil and registration card.

Bob Foote says next year he will pin people down to signing their names and giving their addresses.

The grounds, with their cornshocks and yellow squashes at the entrances, their wooden bowls of peaches and red-striped apples, and dozens of tiny colored gourds, held the very essence of fall against the backdrop of the mountain where occasional branches were already beginning to turn.

Good idea to have it earlier than usual, everyone agreed. Not so chilly, and plenty of time for a rain-check in case of unfavorable weather the first time around.

The Haymarket Show is getting to be a tradition around these parts.

The display of paintings this year was exclusively by Graydon Mayer. Against the weathered grey of the old barn, his water colors showed to advantage. His bleak blue streams cutting through drifts of snow, his Arthur Rakhman skeleton trees, his frowning winter mountains, and his interiors of abandoned shops and buildings, most of them marked SOLD, attracted a great deal of attention.

Lettermen Boosters Set Up Committees

Meeting in the American Legion Home last week, committees for the Dallas Booster and Lettermen's Club reported giant steps taken toward their Booster Day at the Dallas vs Lake-Lehman football game, at Dallas Senior High School Field September 28.

Although the club is in its infant year, the volunteers hope for a generous sports-minded public at the game.

Lew Reese, general chairman for the Booster Game, appointed the following committees: Tickets, Reese Finn, chairman; Red Ambrose, Jack Stanley, Bill Guyette, Leo Corbett, Russ DeRemer, Matt Evans, Bill Davis, Dave Cairns, Charlie Gosart, Jim Haines, Bob Richardson and Ernie Gay. The committee will have tickets on sale at most business locations for $1.

Program Committee, Charles Lockhart, chairman, Ted Poad, Dick Farley, Lauren Dymond and Harry Lefko, has arranged a souvenir program for 10c which includes pictures of both teams, lineups, cheer leaders, and band.

Parking committee is headed by Ned Hartman, chairman; Justus Letts and Bob Bachman, co-chairmen, Vic Cross, Si Jenkins, Larry Newhart, Elmer Evenson, Bill Cooper, Dick Clesby, Paul Steinhauer, Bill Tippett and Tom Wisniewski for this and the Edwardsville game. For the Forty Fort and Luzerne games: Tex Wilson, Andy Victor, Ed Dorrance, Alto Brace, Bob Pickett, Phil Walter, Leo Corbett, Bill Long, Al Husband and Arch Palmtrier.

Jack Porter is publicity chairman, will be in charge. Assisted by Dick VanEtten, Ray Parsons, Lou Plermo, Harold Rose, Cap Jones, F. Allan Nichols and Ned Hartman. Their progress will be noticed in newspapers, radio, TV and posters.

Proceeds from the season will be used for projects for all teams. It is hard that the public will respond to give donations when asked. These volunteers are working for the teams, not themselves.
