Leighton Scott has eyes to see and words to tell about the tree at Eaton's Corner below Orange. That tree has been doing that color performance for years, ever since we first noticed its blazing red in the Fall of 1936.

Leighton, do come over quickly to see the tree at the corner of our road — I mean the tree next to the corner tree. It's redder than red and the leaves are beginning to fall. I was asked the other day when would be the best time to drive out in the country to see the Fall colors. At the time I replied about Oct. 1. But the Artist is working fast and the changes come while you are driving!
