Saved From Fire

The life of 68-year-old John Firestone, Route 29, Lake Township, was saved around 10 Monday morning when police chief Edgar Hughes knocked him to the ground and smothered his flaming clothing, after the Lake dump exploded and set him afire. The chief luckily had been passing by just before the accident occurred, and had stopped to investigate a smoke from the dump.

Firestone was taken to General Hospital in the Lake ambulance after being treated at Noxen clinic.

Thank you, voters of Jackson Township, for your vote and support at the general election on Tuesday.

We, the undersigned, pledge to meet the obligations of our respective offices to the best of our knowledge and ability.

Lake Board Receives Ruckno Plot Plan

Lake Township Supervisors examined road and drainage maps and specifications for Hemlock Gardens, a residential development, and agreed to look the property over to see if it is acceptable.

Board warned builder George Ruckno, however, that a blackout of at least CP2 substance would have to be put on Hemlock Drive before the township would consider taking it over for maintenance and plowing.

For the present, submission of plans, which was tardy according to the Township Code, was simply to receive approval of the Board as a private development.

Supervisors thought the specifications looked adequate, but planned to meet with Mr. Ruckno this week to examine the property. The local contractor said he had not been aware of the law which requires private development plans in all second class townships to be submitted to the Board of Supervisors prior to building.

Hemlock Gardens property is restricted to residential occupation by deed, with about fifty per cent of the owners coming from out of town, with affiliations in Wyoming Valley.

In other business, Carlton Kocher drew the Board's attention to a ditch about eight feet deep on Schoolhouse road near Newell Wood's, where vehicles have upset for lack of guard-rails.

Supervisors also pondered the problem of recently upset school-bus shelters in the Trumbower Hill area.

More Public Interest In Lung Cancer

Lung Cancer and cigarettes—and the possibility of preventive action to avoid lung cancer—aroused more public interest in the past year than any other single phase of the American Cancer Society's activities in Pennsylvania.

This was the statement of Mrs. Robert B. Perry, Bradford, outgoing president of the Pennsylvania Division of the Society, in her report to nearly 400 delegates at the Division annual meeting in Hershey, Pa., on Saturday.

"Schools, from 5th grade through high school, have nearly all been reached with curriculum suggestions on smoking and health through a cooperative program led by the state Departments of Health and Public Instruction, with the hearty cooperation of the Society and other interested voluntary health agencies," she said.

At the county and local levels, the American Cancer Society has sponsored more than 30 conferences for students and teachers on smoking and health.

Robert F. Dickey, M.D., Danville, dermatologist affiliated with the Geisinger Clinic, took over the president's gavel from Mrs. Perry following election of Division officers Saturday afternoon.

Main speaker at the Saturday evening dinner of the two day session was I. S. Ravdin, M.D., national president of the American Cancer Society, internationally known surgeon, and Vice President of Medical Affairs, University of Pennsylvania.

He spoke on "New Horizons for the American Cancer Society," based on his long personal knowledge of the fight to control cancer. "In research, the Society and government cancer research organizations, primarily the National Cancer Institute complement each other," "Each can support certain kinds of research best," he said.

"The American Cancer Society, national, state, and local, will have a major part in the fight to control cancer until the disease is under control," he predicted.

Concluding speaker Sunday noon were Dr. Robert W. Miller, Chief, Epidemiology Branch, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md. Dr. Miller heads the U. S. Public Health Service's programs in "non-test tube research."

As an expert not affiliated with the American Cancer Society, Dr. Miller will give an objective view

Receives Honor

Frank Slaff, Machell Avenue, has been named to the Board of Trustees of Retreat State Hospital, according to recent announcement.

Mr. Slaff received a letter to that effect from Governor William Scranton, with a note of congratulations.

Mr. Slaff, earlier this year, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Atlantic Coast Independent Distributors' Association. His business affiliations include partnership in the Luzerne County News Company, managing partnership of the Northeastern Pennsylvania edition of TV Guide, and he is president of Slatbro Realty Company.

He is very active in civic affairs both in the Back Mountain and in the Wyoming Valley.

A son Lyle, Trucksville, is also associated with the Luzerne County News Company, and another, Allan, is a commander in the Navy.

Retirement?

Miss Miriam Lathrop, former librarian who retired two years ago in October from Back Mountain Memorial Library, writes from Sun City, Arizona, that she is setting out winter flowers in her yard.

"This is such a busy life, being retired. I can't keep up with all the things I want to do," she says.

Taking a busman's holiday, Miriam is on the Library Board (though she says firmly that she will NOT get too deeply involved) and catalogue books, makes out typed cards.

But her main interest is in making her retirement years the pleasantest of her life, travelling, belonging to an enthusiastic group of camera fans. Distances being what they are in the Great Southwest, the Camera Club thinks nothing of driving 100 miles to a chosen spot for a picnic.

There is a possibility that she may drive East next summer. Make it at Library Auction time, Miriam.

Accepted As Member Of Decorator Guild

William Penn Chapter, Esther Stevens Brazier Guild, Historical Society of Early American Decoration, announces that Mrs. George Montgomery, Dallas, has been accepted as a member at the fall meeting in Concord, N. H.

Candidates for membership must submit a piece with country painting, and a piece of stencilled tin. Mrs. Montgomery studies with Mrs. Paul Gross, Sutton Road, authority on Early American Decoration.

of the Society's 1,000,000 person, six-year epidemiological research project now in its fourth year. The ACS Cancer Prevention Survey is the largest medical-statistical study of its type ever launched.

Dallas — Luzerne

astray to halt the drive.
Dallas Reaches 8

Later in the period, another short Luzerne punt went out of bounds at the Dallas 44 from where Dallas started another drive before a fumble stopped them.

Noon blasted up the middle for 16 yards to the Lions' 42 to get the drive underway. Then, with Noon and Farley alternating on running plays along with a 12-yard gain by Baker on a keeper, Dallas reached the 8. On the following play, the Mountaineers fumbled and Reino recovered for Luzerne.

Farley Scores

After a pass to Kerdesky at the 23 for a first down, Luzerne tried the same combination again only to have Noon intercept at the 27 to set up the first Dallas touchdown.

It took Dallas three plays to move into paydirt, with the finale a 22-yard pass play, Baker to Farley, with Farley dragging the defender in from the 5.

A plunge for the extra point failed.

With time running out in the half, Martino broke loose for his longest gain of the afternoon as he moved from his own 31 to the Dallas 43. Again, the defense stiffened, Matukonis was dropped for an 11-yard loss on the next play and the Lions failed to pick up a first down and punted with seconds left.

Noon Tallies

Dallas took the second half kickoff and moved from its own 43 to the Luzerne 30 before the attack fizzled and Luzerne took over.

On the first down, the hard charging Dallas line, led by Bob Redmond, dropped Matukonis for a 10-yard loss and three plays later, the Lions punted to the Dallas 48.

A five-yard penalty against the Lions placed the ball at the Luzerne 47.

With Noon and Farley again grinding out the yardage, plus a Baker to Noon pass for a 16 yard gain, it took Dallas ten plays to move into paydirt again, with Noon going the final three.

A plunge by Noon was stopped again and Dallas led 12-0.

Luzerne had the ball for only five plays from scrimmage during the quarter.

Most of the last period was played between the Luzerne 20 and midfield as the Dallas forward wall continually dropped Lion ball carriers for losses.

Statistics held the upper hand throughout the contest as it picked up 14 first downs against 6 for Luzerne.

Dallas rushed for a net 196 yards and completed 3 of 11 passes for 51 yards.</
