Former Dallas Couple Wed 25 Years

MR. AND MRS. ADDISON C. WOOLBERT, JR.

Two Dallas Area natives will observe their 25th wedding anniversary with an Open House on Sunday, when Mr. and Mrs. Addison C. Woolbert, Jr., 63 State Street, Nicholson will welcome their many friends and relatives to their home.

Married November 19 in Stroudsburg Methodist Church parsonage by Rev. Dr. Frank Andrus the couple resided in Mr. Zion and Dallas prior to moving to Nicholson, eight years ago.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Woolbert stem from old Back Mountain families, the bride being the former Alma Parrish, Carverton, and Mr. Woolbert of Dallas.

During his early years Mr. Woolbert operated a service station in Dallas and sponsored a basketball group. He himself won renown as a baseball player, playing shortstop on the Dallas semi-professional team.

He and his wife are golf enthusiasts and spend their spare time at the sport. The couple have one daughter, Alyce, employed at the Summit Trust Company, Summit, N. J.

Mr. Woolbert is district manager of the Ralston Purina Feed Company. Both he and his wife are active members of Nicholson Methodist Church.

Sparkling Harvest Revue Captivates Large Audience

The delightful, fast moving musical, "Harvest Revue," presented by Dallas Senior and Junior Women's Clubs last week played to an audience of well over 1000 enthusiastic patrons.

Ably directed by Frank Casey with excellent choreography by his wife, Marian, the show offered a splendid chorus of 50 voices ranging from nostalgic numbers to modern lyrics, pantomime and specialties.

Highlight of the presentation was the hilarious impersonation of Louis Primo and Keely Smith by Dick Oliver and Mrs. Casey in the number "Black Magic," which brought down the house.

Another favorite was Mrs. Pat Bradley singing and dancing to the ever-popular tune "Swanee" Thunderous applause drew a repeat of her performance.

The Scarlet Rhythms, a precision girls group also pleased as did the Back Mountain Children's Choir (Harvey's Lake) under direction of Mrs. John O'Connell. Al and Betty Turner, Jack and Betty Rogers were well received in two husband and wife duets.

Mrs. Lois Hannigan playing the marimba and Bobby Baird with trumpet solo drew ready applause.

Special numbers by Mary Lauer, Irene Katyl, Alberta Cross, Diane Meyers, Harry Lefko, Ann Balavage, Rose Marie Mohen, Fred Niemeyer, William Archard, Shiela Bonawitz, Betty Jean Davis and Wilma Carroll rounded out the well-planned program with Jenks Williams caricaturing the old vaudeville circuit.

Masters of ceremony, Vince Murphy and Dan Stenger kept the repertoire at a lively tempo, their humorous comments adding fitness to the entire performance, accompanied by Bobby Baird's Orchestra.

Many spectators expressing the desire to witness a review of the program attested to the fine job done by Mrs. John Rogers and Mrs. Joseph Borton, co-chairmen of the joint endeavor.
