Table For Two
They are left alone in the dear old home,
After so many years,
When the house was full of frolic and fun,
Of childish laughter and tears.
They are left alone, they two—once more
Beginning life over again,
Just as they did in the days of yore
Before they were nine or ten.
And the table is set for two these days;
The children went one by one
Away from home on their separate ways
When the childhood days were done.
How healthily hungry they used to be!
What romping they used to do!
And mother—for weeping—can hardly see
To set the table for two.
Ah, well—ah, well, 'tis the way of the world!
Children stay but a little while
And then into other scenes are whirled
Where other homes beguile;
But it matters not how far they roam
Their hearts are fond and true,
And there's never a home like the dear old home
Where the table is set for two.
—A. E. K.

Out Of Context!
by Rev. Charles Gilbert
"Hide-away . . . Somewhere deep in the inner self of most of us a secret voice whispers for a special place to stretch out our spirits, and savor a round of quiet reflections."
This was a carpet commercial!
It belongs in a spiritual context. We have to have such a "hide-away," a condition for our inarticulate souls. Not a withdrawal from outer realism, not a running away from our tangible world. It is rather a banishment of the falsities and sheer external preoccupations, and a welcoming in of the eternal life of the deathless soul. And doing it within our 24-hour days. A psalm writer long ago wrote truth of it: "As a hart longs for flowing streams, so longs my soul for thee, O God. My soul thirsts for God, for the living God."
It is doubtful if anyone can lead another soul to such a place, but many, driven by inner hankering, have found for themselves the way to eternal refreshment, they "stretch out our spirits" while "lying down in green pastures . . . beside the still waters" where each can say, "He restoreth my soul."
A carpet advertisement in the context of the soul!
