

Misericordia Students Tour Miners National Bank

College Misericordia seniors of the Vocational Guidance Class view a section of the Accounting Department of Miners National Bank during a tour of the central office in Wilkes-Barre.

Joseph F. Cardone, supervisor, explains the procedures of the General Ledger Bookkeeping Department on the machine operated by Beverly Baloga.

Cynthia Urbanski, Olympia Macaravage, Mary Ellen McHugh, Sheila O'Connell, Frances Rodgers, and Margaret Mary Bellezza. The Miners National Bank operates a branch office at Dallas.

Carverton

Never can tell what one will hear while waiting near Boston Store's parking lot in second floor lunch-ette. I was dozing in a corner where I could see Cathy's approach when she was through shopping. Down the line from me there was the usual chatting to which I had only a sleepy ear, until suddenly I heard a lady say—"but now he's working for The Dallas Post." I didn't jump to see who it was speaking. But wondered who the man might be, if he might be one who greases the machines so they can run through Charlie Gilbert's column without wrinkling it all up. Of if he's a skilled typesetter or machinist or something. Anyway, this lady spoke rather gladly about the fact that "now he's working for The Dallas Post." Best of wishes to her and to him and to all "who work for the Dallas Post."

Never can tell what you'll hear in that waiting room—lunch counter. I suddenly thought of Carverton when I heard their paging system calling for "Mr. Bud Edwards—Mr. Bud Edwards!" And I saw him in church Sunday!

At Carverton Church I sat next to David Werts and two children Deborah 8 and David 5. He told me the happy news that his wife is home from the hospital with their third child, Dean Lee Werts born April 28, weighing seven pounds, ten ounces.

Also noted Mrs. Jack Scoble with some of her grandchildren with her as visitors, children of Don and Marian Scoble Siglin from down near Toms River. There was Dawn, aged ten (named for her father Don), Gary age thirteen, and the little girl Gail aged four. I would mention again how green and flourishing the two memorial evergreen trees are, named Jack and Peg, which I set out in my yard two years ago. They bring up precious memories when I think of Peg and Jack.

It was a pleasure to see again Elfrieda Marie Hefft with her folks. She tells me (and her face has a way of glowing!) that she is enjoying her studies at Robert Packer Hospital School of Nursing.

The Carverton choir looked and sounded good. Mrs. Wm. Reid was at the organ. I noted her daughter Elizabeth Reid singing and opening her mouth in delightful enunciation as she sang.

When I entered the church there was tall and talling Phillip Reid passing out bulletins, and Tommy Reid who was ever-so-tiny just a few years ago now sitting with the Robert Parrish family with all dignity.

It always pleases me when I find that people do read my column. A very pretty girl (probably I should know her) in the aisle after church asked, "How was that cracker crumb pie?" It made my mouth water to read about it in The Dallas Post! (see last week's brief page.)

Jackson Twp. Marine In Coastal Exercise

Marine Private First Class Stephen A. Yench, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Yench, Sr., Weavertown Road, Jackson Township, participated in an exercise called "Quick Kick V" off the coast of Virginia and North Carolina with the staff of the Commander of the Atlantic Fleet aboard the heavy cruiser USS Newport News, operating out of Norfolk, Va.

The operation, conducted annually by units of Atlantic Fleet and the Fleet Marine Force, is designed to test the sea assault and combat capabilities of the combined Navy and Marine Forces.

Last week I wrote about Shirley Swan and the three groups of Girl Scouts having their investiture ceremony. These are the Brownies: Debbie Corey, Sharra Chapman, Mary Collins, Barbara Dymond, Brenda Dymond, Debra Dymond, Brenda Kelly, Lorraine Kozloski, Nancy Kozloski Linda Lewis, Diane Palonis, Ann Price, Joyce Redmond, Mary Ellen Repaski, Elizabeth Rutkowski, Mary Jo Ryan, Cathy Scherer, Georgette Swan, Rita Thomas, Patricia Tinklepaugh, Nancy Vandermark, Merrie Williams, Debra Yarisk.

Then there were these Junior Scouts: Mary Ellen Boos, Mary Ella Bravyak, Bernice Brundage, Jane Culver, Janice Dymond, Sally Golembeski, Linda Kelly, Rose Ann Mekoliachik, Debra Palonis, Deborah Panunti and Linda Shaffer.

There were also these thirteen Cadettes: Madalyn Brundage, Linda Dymond, Ann Golembeski, Antonette Jurchak, Patricia Mikoliachik, Lucy Oliveri, Dolores Parry, Janet Potoski, Cathy Ryan, Genevieve Rydar, Dawn Shaffer, Ann Sserwin Shersinsky and Marie Turner.

I asked Shirley how she and Ralph enjoyed their camping weekend. She said they had a wonderful time, did some hiking, getting legs bumped and scratched but really enjoyed roughing it. She'll need some outings like that with this new program of scouting she has taken on! But she's enjoying it.

Near me is a cactus plant of Cathy's. Only it isn't cactus but is Stapella or Carrion Flower, per her encyclopedia. It has a unique and beautiful blossom. It is a perfect five-point star of yellowish ground color heavily speckled with dark brown dots. There is a perfect disk-shaped center with five something-or-other in the center with a still smaller erect group of stand-ups. How very beautiful! But also how un-nice smelling!

Marion LaBar is home from her long siege in the hospital. Not all well, by any means, but as well off at home as in the hospital. And Clayton Grey is home, bringing his old pain and back back with him. Karen Earl has the measles. The three girls of the Dick Dymond family were reported sick Sunday.

The other day Priscilla Krum was working around their lawn, Sherwood was running his putt-putt, and I asked Priscilla if she didn't think someone should tell young Howard what a rich inheritance is coming to him in the variety of possible occupations. What fun he'll have some day running not only papa's putt-putt lawn mower but when winter comes the putt-putt snow blower. Young Howard now likes to look out their big window and watch the birds eating seeds from the porch, and the gray squirrels with tails curled over their backs. He pounds on the window but the squirrels aren't a bit alarmed. So many interesting things await his young curiosity and experimentation.

The Kings Crusaders class met Wednesday evening at the Mt. Zion church. Priscilla Krum led the devotions. Emma Miles asked class members to save their detergent and scraps of rick-rack for use in crafts at Vacation Bible School this summer. There will be a "bake-less bake sale" at the May 27 meeting to help pay for the Bible School supplies. There will also be a special program at the May meeting. After the business meeting games were played and refreshments served by the committee. Betty Earl, Audrey Earl, Priscilla Krum and Catherine Gilbert. Present besides this committee were Thelma George, Jane Lloyd, Emma Miles, Mildred Krum, Madge Smith, Jean Earl, and Janice Vosburg.

Lehman

Regular meeting of W.S.C.S. was called to order by Madeline Adamchick in the absence of Mrs. Howard Ehret, president, April 28 at the Methodist Church. Mrs. Charles Ely gave a book report on "The Missions of South Asia." Mrs. H. A. Brown led devotions, and prayer was given by Mrs. Adamchick.

A letter was read from Keystone College, on sending two representatives to this school. Conference will be held May 21 at 10 a.m. in Central Methodist Church. Emma Ide sent some supplies to Eva Thomas, Pittman Community Center. WSSC will send a box of clothing to Uieques Island Mission in the fall, also a box to the annual bazaar held at Bancroft Taylor Home in August at Ocean Grove, N. J.

Mrs. Leonard Adamchick, vice president, Mrs. Morton Connelly, recording secretary, and Mrs. Russell Coolbaugh, treasurer, were reelected for another term. Serving were: Mrs. Loretta Miers, Mrs. Leonard Ide, Mrs. Lewis Ide, Mrs. Arthur Hoover, and Mrs. Morton Connelly. Next meeting will be May 26.

Ladies Auxiliary entertained at the fire hall April 27 with Mrs. James Cook presiding. Beautification committee reported they are going to plant flowers around the highway. Mrs. Bert Sutton, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, stated that they would serve the couples club from Shavertown. Seventy-five chairs were purchased, folding chair trucks, and 1000 place mats for the tables.

Nominating Committee appointed: Mrs. A. M. Major, Mrs. H. A. Brown and Mrs. Chester Lamoreaux.

Mrs. Dolores Dennis arranged to have some wonderful talent on hand to entertain our members. Sharon Coombs, Carol Johnson and Lana Johnson sang, with Peggie Coletti's accompanist.

KICK-OFF DINNER
Auxiliary and Firemen's Kick-Off Dinner will be served Saturday evening May 16 at the Fire Hall.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER TEA
Mother and Daughter Tea will be held Friday evening, May 15, at Lehman Methodist Church. Everyone is welcome. A good time is promised.

It Pays To Advertise

Earl Roberts called up to place a classified ad on Tuesday. Said there was nothing like a Post ad to bring home the bacon.

Three years ago his 14 year old red cocker spaniel wandered away in midwinter. A month later a man at White's Ferry picked up an old copy of the Dallas Post, rifled through the ads, found a lost dog, looked up, and there was the dog, stiff with sleet, on its last legs. He bundled it into his station wagon, covered with a blanket, and drove to Sutton Creek Road with the victim, now unconscious.

The dog lived two more years, finally keeled over of old age.

Exhausted Dog

A smallish collie-type dog, long-haired with brown and white coloring, limped into the Louis Laning yard on Idetown Road on Sunday, dead beat from travelling miles through swampy land. Completely exhausted, he slept it off all day, ate a dog biscuit, and continued to sleep in the warm spring sunshine on Monday. No collar, no identification, but clearly a much-loved pet.
