Demolished Laidler Barn Now Transformed Into Tree House

The picturesque barn which many passersby have admired over the years no longer stands on the Clarence Laidler property.

Set just back of the lovely waterfall cascading into the little dam where many neighborhood youngsters skated during the weekends, the roof of the structure crumpled under the heavy snow of the past winter.

Fearing some one would be injured, Mr. Laidler dismantled the building. The Kupstas boys, who live behind the Laidlers on Yeager Avenue, asked if they could use some of the lumber for a fort. Mr.

Laidler agreed if they would help clean up the shingles. In no time the job was neatly done and the happy lads, David and Charles, carted the lumber up to their home.

With the help of their friends, Ed Friar and Bobby Glenn, plans were changed to a tree house design. In a wooded area near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kupstas, construction began in earnest, with the four boys working like beavers every moment they could spare.

Now the project is finished with the old hex sign adorning the barn floor as a center medallion. Access was by a rope ladder but has been discarded in favor of climbing up the trunk.

Six lads can comfortably occupy the hideaway and many coming summer nights will undoubtedly find the boys ensconced high above the earth where the whispering branches will lull them into restful repose.

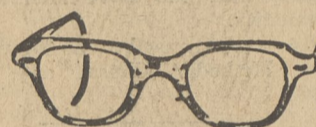

A window will be installed for summer living, and Mr. Laidler, who is enthused about their energy and ingenuity and whose generosity furnished the material, will smile to himself as voices drift softly into his bedroom, reliving the happiness of youth in its private quarters nearby.

As to plans for using the barn site, Mr. Laidler will erect a greenhouse where he can grow the plants and flowers he and Mrs. Laidler enjoy.

Road Oil Fire

Dallas and Kunkle Fire Companies responded to a road oil fire at Dale Parry Paving Company, Fernbrook, at 9 a.m. Tuesday, but were not needed. Jim Parry had put out the flames in the pump room with a hand extinguisher.

Senchak Released From Hospital

John Senchak, Sr., 117 Overbrook Avenue, returned home on Saturday after being a patient at Pittston Hospital.

Mr. Senchak was hospitalized following an accident at American Party Favors Company, Pittston, when he fell on a cutting knife at the plant, inflicting a deep gash in his right forearm which required 30 sutures to close.

His little finger was cut to allow repair to a damaged muscle in the arm.

He is under the care of a physician.

Cancer will kill one in every eight people now living, according to estimates.

The cancerous cell grows among normal cells and destroys them.

Annual Spring Banquet Marks Awards To Dallas Students

Dallas Senior High School held its annual Spring Recognition Banquet Saturday evening, May 2 with George Ralston, Dean of Men at Wilkes College, as guest speaker.

Mr. Ralston stressed the importance of athletics in the development of youth, quoting from Gene Tunney's qualifications for a real champion: strength, agility, speed, courage, ability to take punishment, complete control of emotion and nerves.

Edward Brominski, football coach, was toastmaster.

Students participating in the following activities: Football, Hockey, Girls and Boys Basketball, Wrestling, Track, Baseball, Cheerleading, Golf, Music and Audio Visual Aids, received awards.

Making the presentations were Lester Lewis, Miss Emma Engler, Miss Mabel Jenkins, Joseph Rakshys, Clinton Brobst, Alan D. Husband and Mr. Brominski.

Invocation was given by W. Frank Trimble, principal. Ann Woolbert entertained at the organ and Ann Barnes was organist. Program was held in the auditorium with dinner preceding in the school cafeteria.

Lincolns Are Now Settled At Maryland

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Lincoln and baby Tony, recently moved into an apartment in Oxon Hill, Maryland, just half a mile from Washington, D.C., and two miles from Virginia. The Lincolns recently returned from Germany, where Mr. Lincoln was stationed with the Army, as a 2nd Lieutenant. Mrs. Lincoln is the former Olive Mock, of Dallas and Vernon, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darl Moore, Jackson Street, Dallas. Mr. Lincoln is from Tunkhannock. He plans to continue his education, by attending a college.
