Mr. and Mrs. Stuart P. Marks entertained their daughter Mrs. Ben Shipman and three children Jennie, Buddy and Susie, Spencerport, N. Y.

Jacy Ruggles had an accident on his motorcycle and is in the Harrisburg Hospital. He said it is very lonely and would like to hear from his friends, so why don't you write to him.

Carverton

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reid, Brian Jeffrey and Harry Jr., Wilmington, Del., visited Mrs. Reid's mother, Mrs. Betty Scureman, for a week. When the rest of the family returned home, Jeff stayed on for another week. Then he got on the bus and rode home alone — quite an adult experience.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Ickinger recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Fish at Montoursville and brought Bobby Fish back for a few days visit. And how did Bobby Fish get back home? Well, Mrs. Hildegard Wolfe and daughters Lynn and Leslie visited Mr. and Mrs. Fish for a week, taking Bobby back home.

I got curious to know who was building the nice looking house on the road up from the Carverton parsonage next beyond Elwood Lord's, on the opposite side. So I stopped to inquire and there was James Perry of Trucksville taking a brief rest from hammering nails. He expects some day to move into it with his wife. Alongside of him sitting on the same plank was a young man I used to know, David Dixon, who awhile ago moved back to Carverton from New Jersey where he had lived for fifteen years and now lives in the former Robert Bachman house. He has a lot of earth-digging and moving machinery. He and I recalled that I baptized him and two others, in Jack Scoble's swimming pool which was in the side yard at the time. David and his sister Margaret and Bertha Pace, all Methodists, wanted to be baptized by immersion. (This was a new experience for me and them!) but I managed to get it done. Later David recalls that I married him to his present wife, James Perry thinks I also baptized him when he was living home with his parents David and Edith Perry. Probably I did.

Another new house has been completed along that same road, opposite from James Perry's house and is occupied by people named Kraynak who operate a service station down on Wyoming Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barbuto and family, Norwich, N. Y., have moved to 208 Holly Street.

Mrs. John Kennan entertained her card club at home on Holly Street Wednesday afternoon. Prizes were won by Mrs. James McFarland and Mrs. Allen Johnson. Others attending were Mrs. Burdett Crane, Mrs. Lewis Evans, Mrs. Edward Griffiths, Mrs. L. F. Kingsley, and Mrs. James Martin.
