"I try to be a good example for my kids."

"I don't swear in front of them. Watch my manners when they're around. Do nothing to make them ashamed of dear old dad."

But what kind of example do you set when you've got the family out in the car?

The youngsters see solid, dependable dad blasting off from the curb like there's no tomorrow. They see honest, law-abiding dad racing miles over the speed limit-"because no cops are around."

They see sober, sensible dad taking one (or two) for the road. They see non-gambler dad passing on a curve—"because it's 2 to 1 no car's coming the other way."

They hear good neighbor dad, who never raises his voice at the folks next door, screaming like a madman. Why? Because the car in front of him was a little slow getting started when the light changed.

Is that the way you want it, dad? Do you want your sons and daughters to drive the way they see you drive?

Now is the time for you to start setting a good example for your kids-in the car. It won't be long before one of your youngsters is driving. Will you rest easy at night knowing he drives like "daddy drives"?
