

SHAVERTOWN

Many hunters took to the woods last week but the overall total of deerlayers has not been too great. Young George Wolfe, hunting for his 4th year, got a beautiful buck about 12:30 on Saturday up behind his home in the woodlands surrounding Schooley's farm. The animal, a seven pointer, weighed 160 pounds and provided a big thrill for George who was hunting alone. His mother tells us it was quite a chore getting the deer out of the woods in his car parked alongside the road. This just goes to show the great strain, plus the excitement of the kill, on the hunter and doubly so when the years are creeping up on one. These older fellows should exercise caution if they would avoid serious heart damage.

Not only were the males of the community out for the season but also Minnie Hontz, who hunted everyday and nearly nailed a big one on Saturday. However the heavy haze prevented her from seeing the antlers and Minnie follows the rules.

Going to the "Y" on Saturday night, we spotted Tom Glenn's Christmas decorations in place and most attractive with the multi colored lights illuminating the entrance to his home.

My reference to sewage problems last week brought the disclosure that Brook Street is still a source of annoyance in this respect to those living nearby. One man tells me that when you close the doors and windows for a few days, the stench in the house is unbearable. Something certainly should be done here.

Don't forget Mal Kitchen's Troop 231 when you are shopping for that Christmas tree. Right handy, too, across from Shavertown Methodist Church.

TWO BOUQUETS

It is certainly good to have folks appreciate the thoughtful acts of others and on behalf of the residents of Mt. Airy Road, I relay the following note of thanks.

Every morning early when a slippery condition exists or the fall of snow makes it difficult to get started over the rise near Pioneer Avenue, Wilson Honeywell spreads ashes over the troublesome sector. This has been done over the years and his neighbors are most grateful. The expression of appreciation extends also to Mrs. Norman Honeywell, his mother, who saves all her ashes for just such an emergency. Thanks to both of you.

In yet another instance, Robert Carey called me last week to relay to Shavertown firemen his very deep and sincere appreciation for their quick response, their efficiency and their concern during the recent fire in his house trailer in Fernbrook. Bob and his wife and new daughter were fortunate indeed that Mrs. Carey awoke and smelled smoke, thereby saving their lives. The situation may well have been disastrous. The family are now staying at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carey on Sunset Avenue until repairs are made.

Firemen stayed to check against a recurrence and Walter Davis watched another hour before going home. Robert, more familiarly known as Skipper, himself a member of the fire company, was most complimentary in his appreciation of his comrades and how much their fine work meant to him.

Kingston Township Ambulance is back on the job. Everything worked out fine with Dallas taking our calls and some of our boys going along to help. Eleanor Frederick who does such a magnificent job on the dispatching of crews and relieving anxious families was a bit nervous last Wednesday when Dallas had a Philadelphia trip. Lake, Lehman and Franklin-Northmoreland agreed to handle any calls proving once again how fine a community the Back Mountain really is and why it claims many of us as lifelong residents.

Although some officials and big-wigs like to take issue when constructive criticism is raised, after all our purpose is to make it the finest of residential sectors and if we are to progress and avoid any stagnation, we must face criticism of this type and do something about it.

HERE AND THERE

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carey left Thursday to spend several weeks at Fort Lauderdale. What an appropriate time they chose to go South with the cold blasts besetting our area. Seriously we wish them a very happy vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schwartz and children dropped in last week to visit her mother, Mrs. Sarah Reese Ferguson and do some Christmas shopping in town. The former, Margaret Ferguson, now lives in Danville and is on the staff at Geisinger Medical Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hall have returned after spending Thanksgiving vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hall and family at Pittsfield, Mass.

Lorraine and Joe Allen, who provide a happy home for their family have two new visitors, a boy five and a girl, four, adorable youngsters who are getting that loving they so need in the Allen household. And such a pleasant change from an institution.
