

EAST DALLAS

The East Dallas column was almost without a reporter again since first Mrs. Moore had to give it and now your current reporter is almost blown to bits. I know you one knows of the bomb scare, I thought you might like to hear it from a student's point of view. Considering that I was in the middle of a 300-yard race at the time, this hoax proved to be quite an inconvenience. I'm glad I wasn't in the shower, but in the middle of a 300-yard race the announcement came over the loud speaker and the sweet voice of our principal instructed us to leave the building, on arriving outside the building, or one of the fastest quick changes in history, I found the sidewalk teaming with our "huddled masses yearning to breathe free", students were roaring away helter-skelter in private cars, while those fortunate stood in the wind and rain for over an hour waiting for their busses. The desire to obtain a bus was so great that few cared whether they got on their bus or not, so took the first going in their direction, even though sometimes it left them with a walk of a mile or more. After it was better to walk a mile than be blown to bits while waiting for your own bus. I'll let you in on a little secret though I think I'm afraid of being called back to class was feared more than the heat of the bomb. Many students had their books in school in hopes that they would go up in smoke, it's an exciting community here in East Dallas I am sure you will agree.

The latest craze in our fair metropolis is one that has already been named in Florida-side-walk surfing is called, placed two hundred yards in one week into the hospital in the Sunshine State. The craze isn't quite so dangerous as sounds except for the fact that it's surprising young surfers go to the extreme in their search for a thrill. Last Thursday afternoon three thrill-seeking young men sought to add to their number of conquered hills the pinnacle of side-walk surfing in the Wilkes Barre area—Mr. Despair. A sidewalk surfer is a miniature surf board with roller-skate type wheels attached in front and rear; so if you see someone go sailing by your house one of the numerous hills in the East Dallas area and he seems to be floating on air, you may be witnessing someone enjoying the latest craze at close to fifty miles an hour. This is the speed one of the three mentioned above was doing when he hit a patch of ashes, which resulted in a separated left shoulder. The kids these days.

Myrtle Miller had a pleasant visit recently from Mrs. Edna and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kings of Kingston. James Derr of Orange, who has been a patient in Nesbitt Hospital turned home last week. Harry Howell of Fernbrook is still patient in General Hospital. Choir practice for the East Dallas church will be held tonight at 7. Mr. Alex Matukitis lost the battle with the bug and was confined to home for several days. Can't help a good man down—he's up and at 'em again.

Sallye Higgins, returned missionary from Africa, is spending a week in the Philadelphia area. She has been granted permission to return to Africa and will be stationed at hospital in Nasa, rather than on Crewe Island where she was stationed for her last term. She is scheduled to sail on the Queen Mary in New York on the 31st of March. Mrs. Alex Cook of Maplewood Hospital, has returned home from hospital on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nulton of Intermoreland and Dr. and Mrs. A. Ondash, of Kingston were yesterday afternoon callers of Myrtle Miller, Hildebrandt Road.

Back Mountain Folks

With 1965 Home Show
A number of Back Mountain residents, associated with the home building and improvement business related industries, are prominently identified with the Home and Industry Show, March 11-14, West Side Armory.

Leading the group is Howard Hitesell, one of the founders of Hitesell Brothers and now president of the Home Builders Association of Northeastern Pennsylvania.

Among the major exhibitors is Pennsylvania Gas and Water, of which Robert Evans of the Back Mountain is president. Hitesell also is serving as chairman for the Home Builders of this area's show with Paul Lauer handling the chairmanship for the previous years.

Center Hill Corners

Fields 2-Car Crash
Two cars collided at the intersection of Church Street and Center Hill Road, around 5 Sunday afternoon, with slight injury to passengers in each.

Sustaining a bump on the head is Mrs. Sallie VanTuyke, of Mt. Pleasant, passenger in car driven by husband Harold, east on Center Hill Road, and a bump on the forehead, Robert Hoffman, one of the passengers in the car of Philip Hayden Paylor, of Tunkhannock, who is going west on Center Hill and turning left onto Church Street.

Each driver said he stopped for a stop sign and Police Chief Frank Inge investigated.
