Mt. Zion

Last Tuesday at school, Dawn Shaffer fell and broke her left arm. It was an unusual fracture in that both forearm bones were broken at the wrist. It was thought for awhile that an operation would be necessary to get the bones into position. But an operation was avoided and the arm placed in a cast and sling. Never was that arm so heavy before as it is now pulling on the neck. It is hoped that a satisfactory healing and knitting of the bones will take place within a reasonable length of time.

Dave Perry is a patient in Nesbitt Hospital. The last I heard was that he was some improved.

It was last Friday that Catherine noticed her snowdrop flowers were in bloom on our front bank overlooking the low meadow. These apparently precede the crocuses in the spring parade. In the distance on my dog-walk Sunday morning I heard the notes of the cardinal. He and his missus have been around our feeder off and on all winter but without any song. But now I am assured he is the same pretty-pretty-pretty that we well know he is.

Another sign of spring was noted when I saw Priscilla Krum and young son Howard walking along the road. Howard was trailing a big walking stick that left a mark in the dirt along the berm.

The pussy willows can't really be a sign of spring because ours have shown pussies for a long time. They aren't the least afraid of snow. They are a cultivated variety growing about fifteen feet tall and eager to tell the world that there is springtime down at their feet. Don't put your snowblower machine away for good on account of pussy willow optimism. But we do love the fuzzy catkins. Good Easter symbols.

The help of our neighbors, Trucksville, under direction of Ass't Chief Jim Gordon; Dallas firemen under Ass't Chief Bill Berti and Chief Don Bulford and also a most comforting sight and those who would place a wedge between these volunteer units certainly does not have the interest of the community at heart. How well they work together, all doing a fine job and whatever would we do without them.

Exhaustion, smoke inhalation, the danger of entrapment, saturated clothing, prelude to illness in the chill, freezing weather. This is the end result of a day of saving your lives and your homes and yet one never hears a complaint. My hat is off to them. What a great service, whether you donate to their annual drive or not. How could anyone hesitate to refuse a few dollars to a worthy organization like this when the coin cards come to your door. It is indeed a small amount to give, and not only does it cover fire protection, but the ambulance is at your beck and call any minute, any hour, of the day or night.

FROM THEIR HEARTS
 There are always the nice little gestures in time of disaster. Dorothy Miers brewed up a big pot of coffee which was gratefully received by the firemen. Ricky Edwards, with good boy scout training behind him thought of the little ones in danger and ran to be of assistance. Hank Hill, just recovering from a bout with the flu bug strapped on an air pack and without waiting for any protective outer clothing rushed into the burning building. He emerged dripping wet, result of fire hoses played on the area in which he fought the smoke and flame. And finally, before the firemen withdrew, gifts of clothing were already coming in for the family.

THE WATER PROBLEM
 While I am on the subject of fires and protection, it seems vital that the water companies give a little more consideration. How can men do their best when the pressure is poor? We well realize there was a water shortage last summer. Records tell us that the water table is dropping, but when one is in business, one must expect expenditures and not pure profit.

Bigger mains would be a tremendous asset. How can you get pres-

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Higgins are able to be out again after several weeks illness.

Mrs. Ernest Slocum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Traver, is a surgical patient in Wyoming Valley Hospital.

FIREMEN TO THE RESCUE

Saturday was another disasterous day for several of our residents, but how grateful we are that no lives were lost in the smoke and flames which engulfed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Bolton.

The treacherous fire which gutted the structure made many of us realize more significantly how in a matter of minutes so very much which we treasure can be lost forever.

On the other side of the picture it was most comforting to see our firemen, who perform this dangerous task without any type of compensation and solely out of their concern for others, giving all their effort in our service.

Theirs is a great responsibility for not only must they extinguish the flames, but also save whatever of material value can be snatched from the ruins. They must protect against similar catastrophe neighboring homes or property. After the wetting down process, a check to guard against further outbreak must be made. Chief Bill Frederick rechecked the premises at 4 that same afternoon.

The help of our neighbors, Trucksville, under direction of Ass't Chief Jim Gordon; Dallas firemen under Ass't Chief Bill Berti and Chief Don Bulford and also a most comforting sight and those who would place a wedge between these volunteer units certainly does not have the interest of the community at heart.
