Exhibition Of Painting
 Opens At Bloomsburg

The summer exhibition of oil paintings will be hung in the gallery of Waller Hall at Bloomsburg State College beginning August 1st and continuing until the end of September. Members of the college community and residents of the area are invited to visit the gallery at their convenience.

The various works on display have been completed during the main Summer Session by members of the beginning and advanced classes in oil painting under the direction of Mr. Kenneth Wilson of the Bloomsburg State College Art Department.

The paintings will show still life and non-objective styles done during the morning studio hours. For additional inspiration students spent the afternoons on campus and in the country painting landscapes.

The two month showing of student work will be the first in a series planned for the 1965-1966 college year.
