Charles Long, Sweet Valley, was among the dealers of Massy-Ferguson to make a trip recently to Indianapolis, Indiana. He was met by two other dealers at the turnpike interchange and together drove to Friendship Airport at Baltimore, Maryland. From there they went on to Indianapolis, where they were met by buses which took them to the training school where their own mechanics as well as their dealers mechanics are trained. They were then taken to Claypool Hotel where they were entertained until 11 o'clock in the hospitality room.

Next morning after checking luggage and having breakfast, they were taken to the training farm. It is the only farm of its kind in the country. There they were shown the different machines, the competitive machines, the advantages and disadvantages over the competitive machines. The equipment was demonstrated and each dealer was allowed to operate the machines of his choice. A box lunch was served at the farm by a caterer.

About 4:30 the group left the farm by bus and were taken to the Airport for their return trip to Baltimore. Supper was served on the plane. They arrived in Baltimore Thursday night and motored home.
