THE MOUNTAINS IN WINTER

I
 The mountains in winter are glorious
 All covered with ice and snow
 From the crest of the hills to the treetops
 Far down to the valley below.
 II
 Icicles hang from the ledges,
 I break them off as I pass.
 The meadows glisten with diamonds,
 The streams are like ribbons of glass.
 III
 Our Lord reached down from the heaven
 And spread out this marvel of white
 To cover the earth like a blanket
 All through the long winter night.
 IV
 It hides all the scars of the harvest
 And shelters the seeds that will grow
 In the beauty and joy of the springtime
 When earth sheds its blanket of snow.
 By Mrs. Edward Freeman
