Acme Markets Reports Record Sales, Net Down

For the 16th consecutive year, Acme Markets, Inc., rang up a new record for sales. According to the firm's annual report, released today, Acme sales reached $1,200,749,822 in the 52 weeks ended April 2, 1966. This represents a gain of 3.4% over last year when sales reached $1,161,198,293 in 53 weeks.

However, earnings dipped to $3.73 per share, down from $4.58 a year ago, adjusted for the 5% stock dividend paid March 31, 1966. Net earnings declined to $10,450,144 from last year's $12,883,599. Profit margins were narrowed by higher costs of products, material, supplies and wages, as well as intense competition in areas where Acme does business and a brief though costly work stoppage in Philadelphia. Despite the decline in earnings, profit performance improved in each succeeding quarter during the fiscal period.

Acme opened 32 new food stores during the year with 15 of them at Alpha Beta, headquartered at La Habra, California. At the close of the fiscal period, Acme had 902 stores in operation. The firm closed 56 food stores where operations were unprofitable or where new stores served the same areas.

"Although we closed more stores last year than we opened," Mr. Paul J. Cupp, chairman of the board, said, "We had a net gain in total sales area and sales per square foot of sales space. Our plans call for an increased number of stores to be opened in the current year."

Major expansion projects included a milk plant in La Habra, California, distribution centers for perishables and frozen foods in Philadelphia and a canning plant in Hurlock, Maryland.

Mr. Cupp is optimistic about Acme's future. "Since the start of the new fiscal year, our sales trend has improved steadily," he pointed out. "While April sales were $94,646,636 or 3.6% ahead of a year earlier, May sales, so far, have exceeded those of May last year by a higher percentage than the April increase."
