Follow Those Marchers Wherever They May Go

The Dallas Marching Units are off again! This Saturday they will take off early for Jersey Shore where they will parade as part of a three-day celebration under the Tiaughton, an old Elm which played a big part in history.

After the Jersey Shore parade, the gang will board the buses and head for Renovo. There they will march in an evening parade.

The marchers and their advisors are always glad to have parents or friends along. They can help or just look on! If you have no great plans for that day, pile the family in the car and go along. You're bound to have fun!
