SPORTSMANS CORNER

EDWARD R. GDOSKY

by Jim Hopple

I am very proud to be able to present to you a man whom I have looked up to and, in some cases, been able to work with, for some time and hope that some day I will be able to step into his footsteps and continue the great work that he is doing and has done in the past to preserve our wildlife and other natural resources.

He is Edward R. Gdosky, Luzerne County, Pennsylvania Game Protector. Ed is 39 years of age and is six feet, two inches tall and weighs 210 pounds. He was born June 1, 1927 at Mt. Pleasant, Pa., graduating from Connessville High School in 1945.

He spent three years in the U. S. Navy, being discharged with the rank of Machinist Mate 2nd Class. Eddie served 5 years as Deputy Game Protector and then went to Ross Leffler School of Conservation (school for training men to qualify as Pennsylvania Game Protectors) where he graduated with the 8th class. He then became a District Game Protector, assigned to the Northwest Division office. From there he moved into his present location in the Northeast Division Office. This is his tenth year as game protector.

Ed resides at R. D. 4, Dallas with his charming and pleasant wife, Joan. Ed and Joan were married August 16, 1958. Joan is always willing to help her husband anytime he might need her. I, for one, think she deserves a lot of credit.

Ed's parents, Steve and Anna Gdosky live at Melcroft, Pa. He has three sisters and three brothers. Sportswise he likes football and baseball.

I asked Ed what advice he had for a young man looking forward to becoming a Game Protector and he said, "Must be interested in the outdoors and have some knowledge of wild birds and wild mammals. Also," he added, "not afraid to work long hours, seven days a week, without any extra money for overtime."

We could certainly use more men like Edward R. Gdosky, Pennsylvania Game Protector. Here parents is a man that your children and you yourself can look up to with pride!
