Spurrlov Concert Sunday At Irem

The Spurrlovs will present a concert at Irem Temple Sunday afternoon October 22 at 3:15 p. m., sponsored by the Wyoming Valley Federation of Men's Bible Classes. The name Spurrlovs is a name taken from the founder and director Thurlov Spurr. The troupe is composed of thirty-one members selected on a 3 point basis: musical ability, Christian commitment and their general high level of achievement. The Spurrlovs do three types of concerts. On Sunday afternoon they will present "Splendor of Sacred Song," a spectacular production featuring stereo sound, costumes and special lighting effects, in addition to a wide variety of sacred musical selections. The Spurrlovs now in their 10th year, appear before an estimated million people every year, doing 200 sacred concerts and more than 450 high school assemblies annually. There is no general admission charge to the concert all are invited. A portion of the auditorium is reserved for those holding patron tickets which may be obtained in the Back Mountain area from Mr. John Rice and John Medovich or call Elmer J. Phillips at 287-0934 for further information. Table prizes, plus many door prizes, will be awarded. Gift items, baked and canned goods will be on sale.

Caravan Stresses Sesqui Worship

Park Neighborhood Free Methodist Church had a full house Sunday night when caravan, arrayed in pioneer costume, appeared under leadership of George McCutcheon for an evening of old fashioned hymn singing led by Bob Nielson. For the most part, reports Rev. Grove Armstrong, it was congregational singing, but there were a few special numbers: Jack Byron and Rev. Armstrong sang a duet, Rev. Herbert Oliver sang a solo, Violet Frantz and Wesley Cooper sang. About 200 were present, many of them young folks of the community. Rev. Armstrong says the credit for the idea goes to Sadie Cooper. Rev. Oliver gave a down to earth message, following the theme of many an old-time evangelist, and Rev. Milton Frantz, pastor of Dallas and Outlet Free Methodist churches, led in prayer.

C. Fred Terry, 77, Dies After Illness

C. Fred Terry, 77, Meadowerest, died last Wednesday morning at Nesbitt Hospital, following an illness of several weeks. Native of Oxford, he lived in Drexel Hills for some years before moving to Trucksvile nine years ago. Three years ago he retired from employment with the Philadelphia National Bank, with which he had been associated for many years. He was a former member of Broad Street Methodist Church in Drexel Hill, and a member of Olivet Lodge F&AM, Philadelphia. He leaves his widow, the former Marie A. Horensky of Wilkes-Barre; a son Raymond C. Terry, Akron, Pa., and one granddaughter. Burial was in Fern Knoll Cemetery Saturday morning, following services conducted by Rev. E. Poeter Adams pastor of Forty Fort Methodist Church from a Forty Fort funeral home.

Dallas Methodist WSCS Hears Rev. Edwards On Ecumenicity

Dallas Methodist WSCS heard Rev. James Edwards, dean in charge of Derr Memorial and Bennett Churches, who gave a talk on Ecumenicity last Tuesday evening in the social rooms. Rev. Edwards is a student at Drew Theological Seminary, where the current trend toward Ecumenicity is the subject of much discussion, leading, hopefully, toward greater understanding between members of various branches of the Christian faith. Mrs. Joseph Marsh, president, thanked Rev. Edwards.

Mrs. Edgar Brace read the purpose of the WSCS; Mrs. Thomas Bottoms read the minutes, Mrs. David Evans presented the treasurer's report. Mrs. Ralph Brown led devotions. Announcement was made that Wyoming Valley Council of Churches will hold an anniversary dinner meeting October 25 at 6:30, at Irem Temple. Those wishing to attend were asked to make reservations.

Mrs. Thomas Cease was named secretary of Missionary Education; Grace Klees the new treasurer, and Mrs. Marvin F. Scott publicity. Secretaries reported for their committees.

A Time for Meditation was scheduled at the church from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on October 25th. Envelopes will be distributed, to contain an offering for prayer and self-denial, to be returned at this time. Mrs. Floyd Slocum and Mrs. Paul LaBar, chairman and co-chairman of the December 2nd Bazaar, reported on plans. Mrs. John Gaughn asked for donations for surprise packages.

Women of the WSCS will serve refreshments at the Dog Show slated for Kingston Armory November 4. Mrs. Sheldon Drake thanked the women who helped prepare and serve the meal for the reception for the Shaver-Malkemes wedding. Mrs. Carleton Davies thanked those
