On Wednesday, April 3, the School Assembly Service presented, the "Marvels of Chemistry," to the student body. A very interesting program.

Mr. Arthur Sterling demonstrated various acid-base tests, flame tests, molecular motion, and Luminol, or chemical heat. His talk also included practical applications of chemistry.

Miss Sophie Morris, faculty advisor to the Dallas staff, reports that the first portion of the 1968 yearbook has gone to press. As usual, the yearbook will be distributed early in June and there are a few annuals left for those who wish to order them. An innovation for this year's book will be the publication of a Senior Supplement containing senior activities (class day, banquet, class trip, and commencement). This supplement is being made available only to seniors.

Drill Team

Well, it's spring again, (isn't that obvious) and members of the boys' and girls' drill teams here at the senior high are once more turning to thoughts of long bus rides, hot marches, prizes, hilarious mistakes and fun.

Every year faces appear and old ones disappear but fortunately we still have the capable leadership of Mrs. Mallin and Mr. McCutcheon. (What would we do without them?) Mr. Halterman, a new teacher, is now an assistant adviser to the boys' drill team. Good luck to Mr. Halterman!

Our drill teams are well known throughout the state and have taken and are expecting to take many more trips to distant points.

The girls are hoping to get new uniforms this year and are working on a Scottish theme. A snappy new uniform should really give the girls the boost they need to carry off all the prizes this year.

On Tuesday the glass walls of the new large group instruction room vibrated furiously as the second debate of the year battled its way through activity period. The heated topic. Resolved: that all issues leading to strikes should be settled through compulsory arbitration by the government. Brian Beard and Lorraine Daring took the affirmative stance, while Vince Roman and Cheryl Beard supported opposing views. An attentive audience was furnished by other members of the Debate Club.

Mrs. Stefan Hellersperk, fashion co-ordinator from the Boston Store, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Fashion and Design Club. Mrs. Hellersperk gave a very interesting talk on the basic lines of fashion. She pointed out ways to camouflage personal figure problems and play up good points, using examples of styles to emphasize her statements. Although just started the Fashion and Design Club, under the guidance of Mrs. Goeringer, has held many successful meetings, most of them organized by the student members themselves. This meeting was made possible by the efforts
