PROCEDURES NEED UPDATING Certain it is that Congress is slowed, and sometimes bogged down, because of the rigidity of its dedication to tradition. If you really want to plead your views personally on a bill before a congressional committee, you'll find it relatively easy to get the nod to present yourself. But be prepared for delays, and possibly postponements, in your appearance date and time; for committees meet mostly about midmorning and adjourn by noon when the Senate and the House convene.
