

Dallas Senior High School News

Scott Peterman and Joan Domnick Situation Normal

Already three weeks of school have been committed to the past, with things more or less settling down into the routine of everyday school life. No longer need sophomores consult a road map before venturing out into the two-way traffic of seniors and juniors racing to get to their next Physics or Chemistry class. Juniors have been officially initiated into "World Cultures" with their first 60-question "quiz." (Aw, come on, it wasn't THAT bad.) Visitors to the school might wonder at the 11th graders fumbling around the halls, mumbling to themselves, a pair of spectators staring vaguely over the top of twenty books, but everybody up here just takes it in stride. Seniors wander nonchalantly about, occasionally throwing a glance to an awed sophomore or weary junior, but for the most part acting as if they owned the place. Yep, things are back to normal. Except for one thing - we won our first football game.

Rah! Rah!

A pep rally was held last Friday in the gym to boost school spirit for Saturday's football game with GAR. A good place to get rid of your frustrations from the past week the teachers never suspect you're yelling at them.

Future Teachers of America

Approximately fifty seniors attended the first meeting of the F.T.A. The following were elected officers: President - Joan Domnick, Vice - President Linda Finn, Secretary - Joan Nelson, and Treasurer - Diane Hozempa. Mrs. Hopkins is the faculty advisor.

Debate Team

The Debate team will be adding six to eight new members to the team this year. Most of them will be sophomores. Tryouts will consist of (1) a 3 minute logic test, (2) a short essay, and (3) an oral part to test speaking ability.

This year there will be a Debate Clinic on October 12th at King's College. Speakers will be there from all over Maryland, Pennsylvania, and New York. Dallas hopes to send 5 debaters to the clinic.

Dangerous Habits

A witty young man, Larry Smith, entertained the Dallas High School on Sept. 12th. Larry's talk was entitled "Put a tiger in Your Tank." Larry is the co-producer of "Way-Out", the film which is being sent to the International Film Festival. "Way-Out" is a movie illustrating the horrors of drug addiction. In his speech Larry talked about smoking, drinking, and drugs in such a manner so as to make the students listen carefully. Mr. Smith wisely stated that although it's good to keep the body in good condition, it's better to feed the mind so that it, too, functions properly.

Drama Club

The Drama Club will certainly be busy this year. The Club meets every Wednesday. To become a member of the club one must recite from memory ten lines from any play. Mr. Donald Hopkins, Club advisor, said that they were going to present something of a dramatic nature for the Kiwanis Club and other organizations. The Club will also be visiting many colleges to see dramatic productions.

Junior Elections

Once again the halls take on an air of politics as posters relate the qualifications of the candidates for Junior Class elections. Results will be published within the next couple of weeks.

N.H.S.S.

National Honor Society Scholarships are open to all members. The members must take the PSAT in the fall of the year to qualify for the scholarship.

Hockey

Off The Cuff Stuff

BY BRUCE HOPKINS

This is the second installment in my series on my summer trip out west. You may recall that at the end of the last gripping episode we were in Rock Springs, Wyoming, in the middle of a mobil home park, with our little tent pitched on a 9"x12" plot of grass--the only grass in Wyoming--with the temperature dropping to 32. From our old Boy Scout days, we remembered enough to put our clothes in the sleeping bag with us so that they would be warm in the morning. Wrinkled, but warm.

Morning came early, and we scrapped the ice off of the windshield headed for Salt Lake City. It was the cleanest town we were in. In fact, they run water in the gutters there to keep them clean. We visited the very lovely Mormon grounds, and I took a picture of a genuine, Salt Lake City Mormon. They're nice.

The next stop, after the Mormon grounds was a casino just across the border in Nevada (this is called for from one extreme to another). We all played the old slot machines, won nickels and dimes, which we then proceeded to lose all over again. But it was fun, especially when we discovered on the way out that you had to be 21 to enter the place. Well, we obviously looked that old, and were practically that age anyway. Actually, I was surprised no one questioned us. Most strangers think I'm about 14 years old.

As we crossed Nevada, I remarked that it reminded me of Utah, which reminded me of Wyoming, which reminded me of Colorado, which means Nevada is flat. I couldn't decide what we'd ever do if we were attacked by Indians: pull the car in a circle I guess. We were just wide open for ambush.

As we passed the Bonneville Salt Flats, Sam Zachary insisted we stop. He wanted to taste the sand. It tasted like dirty salt. From the salt desert we drove all the way to Winnemucca. I am actually able to say that I spent a night in Winnemucca, Nevada. I never thought the day would come when I would be able to say that.

Our next stop was an exciting one: Reno, Nevada--"The biggest little city in the world." It houses the two most famous gambling casinos in the world, Harold's Club and Harrah's. And we actually going to gamble there--or so we thought. Sam Zachary and I have the great distinction of having been asked to leave Harold's Club because we weren't old enough to be there. Yeah, it was really sad. They thought I was fourteen. But we at least got to eat lunch at Harrah's. Bobby Darin was to appear there that night. This little old man who clean's ash trays, was real nice to us. He let us steal one. But we had to wait until he set it down on the table, and then turned around. The only other interesting thing that happened to us in Reno was that we discovered there is only one phone book for the whole state of Nevada. I felt you would all like to know that.

Next stop--Virginia City. Yes, there we were in genuine, western town with genuine, western saloons, and genuine, western wooden sidewalks, and genuine, western slot machines. The place is the biggest genuine, western tourist-trap in the world. If it hasn't been for the tourist it would have been a real ghost town. The shops do however have the most beautiful genuine, western souvenirs made in genuine, western Japan.

The next day we went to Lake Tahoe--good old Frank Sinatra's summer camp. It was 9:00 a.m. Sunday morning, and everybody was gambling away like it was still Saturday night (in fact, I think some of them thought it still was Sunday night!) Somehow it seemed sacrilegious or unconstitutional or something. So we didn't bet there, we just used the men's room. (You don't have to be 21 to do that.)

This was the day we reached California. It was like going through customs. They stop you and make sure you don't have any fruit or plants or anything. They're afraid you might take plant disease into the state. So the guy gave our apples a once-over, and there we were in sunny California. It didn't seem right. How many times have I talked about how I'd like to go to California, and so there I was, and so how come I didn't feel anything? I mean I expected some big metamorphosis (I've always wanted to use that word).

For the answer to the question, "Can Bruce Hopkins and Sam Zachary find true happiness in California?" tune in again next week. SEE YA!

Lake-Lehman H. School News

by Donna Post

As Lake-Lehman High School opens its doors for another school year, I would like to wish everyone a happy and educational year! Through this column, I hope to become a close friend of all those who desire to learn about LLHS. Senior Judy Cooper will be assisting me as copy editor - typist.

Football Triumph

The Lake-Lehman Knights were jubilant on Saturday, September 7, as they overwhelmed Wyalusing High School by a score of 20 to 6. George Curry, football coach, and his assistants; John Oliver, Edmund Nark, and John Jenkins, are to be congratulated on a fine game.

Cheerleaders

Knightland is accented at football games this year with a peppy cheering squad. Clad in black and gold uniforms, with snappy black and white sandals, the ten smiling, sunny cheerleaders will be sending cheers across the LLHS field. Miss Maureen Purcell is faculty advisor, while Senior Linda McKeel is captain.

Band News

The LLHS band, which is quite well-known about Northeastern Pennsylvania, presents a superb show during the halftime at their football games. An entirely new system is in effect this year, with additions, new ideas, higher feet, and more precision lines. Popular songs provide the background music for a show which really attracts the attention of the audience. Mr. John Miliuskas is director of the band, and also the designer of this year's field show.

Magazine Campaign

The annual Magazine Campaign is currently in effect at the high school. Students in the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades are selling subscriptions to both earn prizes for themselves and profits for their school. If you are approached in regard to a subscription, please help. Miss Mary Lamoureux is Advisor of the Campaign.

Articles For Sale

Does that sound like an ad for the classified section of The Dallas Post? Well, it almost is! This year the Key Club of Lake-Lehman is selling articles needed by students of high school level. Articles included in the sales are felt tip pens, book covers, and later on, notebooks, pens, pencils and LLHS pins. Support your Key Club! Mr. Jenkins is faculty advisor.

Lecturer Visits LL

Mr. Larry Smith was guest speaker at our high school on Thursday, September 12. Meeting with the entire student body in the gymnasium, Mr. Smith gave a lecture on the importance of a good education and the advantages of a well-rounded sense of responsibility in high school students. After his speech he announced that copies were available and many students took advantage of the offer. Some students will never forget the comments Mr. Smith made about pot, alcoholism, and drug addiction. An assembly which entered the gym rather boisterous left just a bit speechless. Miss Bator was in charge of the Assembly.

Senior Pictures

Prestwood Studios of Scranton have completed taking photos of members of the Senior Class and faculty members. The proofs will be arriving in approximately 10 to 14 days. Then seniors will order photos and, in most cases, an oil portrait. Prestwood Studios will cover yearbook pictures at LL also.

Newspaper Campaign

September 16 to 20, CRUSADER newspaper staff conducted an extensive advertisement and subscription campaign throughout the junior and senior high school. Under the supervision of Miss Carl Ripa, the newspaper has taken great strides forward. She has working with her, a veteran staff. Students are being trained with a new Journalism course at the high school also; therefore the CRUSADER will appear five times this school year in even finer style. Price is one dollar. Community members are beckoned to help the staff meet publication costs.

The quarantine affects infested areas of Bradford, Carbon, Erie, Lackawanna, Lehigh, Luzerne and Lycoming counties.

Products which must be certified as chafer beetle free before shipment from these areas include: soil, compost, decomposed manure, humus, muck and peat, separately or in combination; grass sod; plant crowns and roots for propagation; bulbs, corms, rhizomes and tubers of ornamental plants when freshly harvested or uncurved, and used soil-moving machinery.
