Independent had reached a settlement.

Center Moreland's mystery beast, last seen in the area guarding a dead calf, reappeared in Coatesville. Spectators, hair standing on end, described it as having a long neck and big teeth, and with sound effects, screaming like a woman.

The Susquehanna, up eight feet following spring rains and thaws, was momentarily held in check by a sudden freeze.

Northeastern Pennsylvania Dahlia Association was going great guns, Dallas' Dolly Sawyer one of its most active members.

PWA money was seen as a possibility in helping finance a community hall in Dallas. Lettie Culver was president of Dallas Woman's Club, the sponsoring organization. Civic organizations were in favor.

Pope Pius XI was dead, St. Therese's was draped in black. Warriner's duck farm at De-munds had an output of 30,000 baby ducklings per year, a back yard hobby which grew into big business. Folks used to be able to buy cracked duck eggs at bargain prices.

Died: Fred Perrin, 68, Trucksville. Mrs. Elizabeth Blewitt, 48, Dallas. Adam L. Ness, 83, Shavertown.

Marble C. Gay, general manager of Gay-Murray, died of injuries sustained in a car crash near Clarks Summit.

Mrs. Dwight Fisher showed her miniature furniture and rooms at a Book Club meeting. Geese were going over, robins were here, spring was in the air.

A giant pumper from the Hahn company was on display, making the rounds of volunteer fire companies. Cost for the 16-cylinder job, $18,500, capacity 1,500 gallons. Unique mounting of wheels.

A fund to relocate the Little League field from Shavertown to a point near Dallas Junior High School got off the ground with sale of a bond to W.B. League field from Shavertown to a point near Dallas Junior High School got off the ground with sale of a bond to W.B. Jeter, at the Dallas Branch, Miners National Bank. Small boy in the pix was Ricky Davis, in baseball togs, big as a minute.

Dallas Woman's Club, in a bid to renovate the depot in central Dallas, ran into a snag. Lehigh Valley RR said unions would not permit scab labor, no matter how voluntary. The committee wanted to restore the depot as an antique. (Some years later a group of men chickened out on a secret plan to paint the building overnight.)

Opening gun in a campaign to get an elderly woman off the hook after being bulldozed into signing for unneeded repairs on her furnace.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 232 staged their annual winter outdoor camp-out and freezeup in the teeth of a howling gale in the Shavertown Shopping Center. A blizzard never stopped this outfit. John Butler was leader.

New flag had 49 stars. Dan Flood said it was illegal to display it before July 4, but a lot of folks got itchy fingers. (Well, what did the 49th stand for, Alaska or Hawaii?)

Mrs. E.Y.B. Engelman was 95 years old.

New terminal at Avoca airport was in its final stages of building.

Died: Mrs. Carrie Carlin, 87, East Dallas. Mrs. Pearl Jones, formerly of Huntsville. Stevan Radanovitch, 47, Jackson Township. Mrs. Agda Lewis, 68, Trucksville. Allison Lord, 38, Mt. Zion. Sherman Sickler, 74, Orange. William Parry, 81, Harveys Lake. Mrs. Olive Montross Clark, 67, Center Moreland. William A. Farver, 76, Sweet Valley.

lowances and doing little, if anything, to earn them. Never have so many been sent so far at such great expense who have done so little.

"The fact is that of AID officials in South Vietnam the Director receives in excess of $44,000 per year; 28 receive in excess of $41,700 per year; 82 receive $35,000; 262 receive in excess of $30,000; 409 receive in excess of $24,600 and 76 receive more than $19,000 per year.

"This is outrageous. What justification is there for the AID head in Vietnam to receive almost $5000 a year more than the Chief Justice of the United States?

What possible reason can be given for paying 110 other AID officials a greater salary than that received by members of the Cabinet, Senators and Congressmen?

What excuse for paying 262 additional AID officials salaries the same amount received by Members of Congress?

It is scandalous that 782 AID officials in Vietnam are now being paid $25,000 a year or more.

In addition to their base salaries these officials are given a 25 percent hardship allowance, a $3000 separate maintenance allowance, and fringe benefits including air-conditioned housing at our taxpayers' expense and medical care and all PX and commissary privileges. There is evidence that many sell cigarettes, whiskey, radios and other PX and commissary merchandise to South Vietnamese.

"Many of these overpaid and underworked AID officials are expected to work in refugee camps, so-called, some have refused to remain in refugee camps because of 'lack of security'.

A typical example of AID maladministration concerns five forestry experts, so-called, each with an annual salary including fringe benefits exceeding $38,000.

The live in air-conditioned, high-rent apartments paid for by our taxpayers; and they work—or supposedly work—in an area where there has been no timber whatever for many years.
