

art show judges named

Judges for the fourth annual Spring Art Show sponsored by The Wyoming National Bank of Wilkes-Barre will be Edward and Elizabeth Lehman of Quakertown and Warren Luch of New Tripoli, Pa. Entries for the show will be received at the Wilkes-Barre office of the bank this week during banking hours; the show will be open to the public May 3 thru 23.

Edward H. Lehman was born in Canton, Ohio. He and his wife, Elizabeth, presently live in an 18th century stone house in Bucks County where he also has his studio. Mr. Lehman is a nationally recognized advertising illustrator, having done work for such companies as Armstrong Cork, Dupont, AT&T and Bigelow.

professional experience includes graphic designer for Ralph Reynolds Studio in Salt Lake City; instructor of art at Brigham Young University; assistant professor of art at Kutztown State College.

He has received awards from the Utah Advertising Artists' Association. He and his wife were commissioned to paint the Children's Murals for the Salt Lake City Library.

The annual Wyoming National Bank art show, with a theme of "Spring Comes to Wyoming Valley," will be a part of "Cherry Blossom Time" with special hours, 12 to 5 p.m. on May 3 and 4.

alumni day at Seminary

Saturday, May 17 will find graduates of Wyoming Seminary converging on the campus for the annual Alumni Day festivities. Carl Goeringer '44, RD 3, Dallas, is serving on Sem's Alumni Day committee. He notes that a full complement of activities is planned beginning with a "kaffee klatsch" and informal campus tours at 10:30 a.m.

Lunch will be served in Pettebone Dickson Student Center at 12 noon. Afternoon events include a tennis match between Sem and Abington Heights at 1 p.m. and a seminar on "Global Health Progress" at 2 p.m. featuring five of Sem's outstanding alumni.

At 6 p.m. the Alumni Dinner in Fleck Hall will serve as a climax to the day's activities. Honored guests will be members of the fifty year class. Reunions are planned for the following classes: 1900-14, '19, '24, '29, '34, '44, '49, '54, '59, and '64.

He is particularly well known for the paintings done for the late President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy of the "red" and "green" rooms in the White House which were reproduced and given to White House staff and friends as Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Lehman was born in Philadelphia and attended Moore College of Art. She also studied with George Sklar. She has won many awards with her charcoal and pastel renderings.

Warren Luch graduated from William Allen High School and the Philadelphia Museum College of Art; he received his BA and MA degrees from Brigham Young University. His

at sea

Fireman Barry W. Coombs, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert F. Coombs of Dallas RD 2, has completed three weeks of training at sea aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Albany in the Caribbean.

The Albany, one of the Navy's most modern warships, is equipped with both long and intermediate range surface-to-air guided missiles as well as mounting the Navy's ASROC—an anti-submarine rocket.

No Will, No Way

Dear Miss Brookfield: We are a happily married couple in our late sixties. We are active and enjoy life and each other. We have a good relationship, except for one area of conflict. My husband seems to resent keeping me informed of our financial situation. He won't even discuss his will with me. It was a problem in our younger years, but I feel now we're getting on. I really need to know about these matters. Can you give me any support?

J.A.W., Albuquerque, N.M.

Dear J.A.W.: Authorities in the financial field agree with you that it is important for a wife to be aware of the family's finances. It is especially important for the mature wife to be educated in these matters. Since the will concerns you as well as your husband, it is essential that you know of its provisions now. A time of grief and bereavement is not the time to begin learning about executors and heirs.

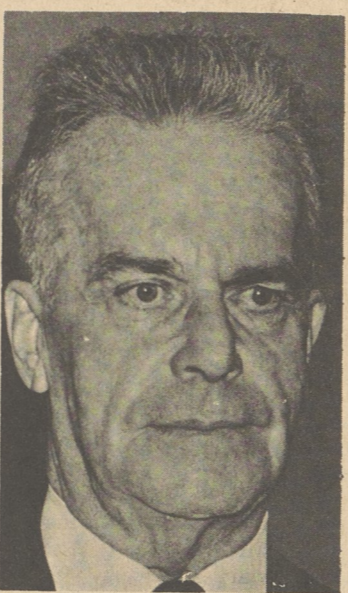

Our experts also say that every wife should know the name of her husband's insurance agent, his broker, and his lawyer. In addition, she should know about the day-to-day family finances. Perhaps you could enlist the aid of his lawyer to convince your husband to keep you informed. There's a small book by Donald Rogers, "Teach Your Wife to Be a Widow," that you and your husband might find helpful.

slightly, and I find myself becoming self-conscious because of it. Isn't this an unusual problem for a woman of my age?

W.W., Greensboro, N.C.

Dear W.W.: It may be a small comfort to you to know that this is a problem that afflicts many women at the time of menopause. Experts believe that, just as acne during adolescence is related to hormonal changes, acne in the mature years is also related to hormonal changes. In regard to acne, the American Medical Association says: "Each physician has his own rules, methods, and medications, and the treatment will vary with the needs of the individual patient." Many physicians prescribe estrogen therapy for treatment of acne, as well as for the relief of other distressing menopausal symptoms. This is a problem that your physician can help you with.

Misericordia spring festival

MICHAEL RYAN

Mercy Spring Festival, to be held on the campus of College Misericordia on May 3-4, will draw an anticipated crowd of 8,000 persons, according to Michael Ryan, Wyoming, co-chairman.

Chairman of the event is Stephen McGough, Wilkes-Barre, representing one of the sponsoring organizations, the Mercy Auxiliary.

Mr. Ryan is a member of the McAuley Guild-Parents' Association, another sponsor. Sr. M. Ruth Kelly, R.S.M., College Misericordia, is director of the affair. Proceeds will benefit the local educational and hospital works of the Sisters of Mercy.

Fairgoers will be treated to a special entertainment on Saturday night. A display of fireworks will lighten the sky, the work of the Somenza Brothers, Dupont.

dean retires to Harveys Lake

On July 1, 1969, Bertha M. Huey, Harveys Lake, director of guidance services at Abington Friends School in Jenkintown, will complete 47 years.

After being graduated as valedictorian of her class both at Kingston High School and at Mansfield State Teachers College, "Bert" taught high school mathematics for seven years in Kingston, her home town. From there she accepted an appointment at Country Day School at Scranton. During these years she was also very active in the Red Cross—teaching first aid and doing disaster work at the time of the floods which devastated the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton area in the late thirties and early forties. During the summer months she was assistant director-dietitian of a YWCA camp. After the depression she organized and staffed canteens for teenagers.

Active in the Pennsylvania Association of Women Deans and Counselors, Bert has always been willing to accept various committee appointments; she served as treasurer at one time, and most recently chaired the program committee for the 1968 Convention at Hershey. There have been summers as a head counselor at Hanoum Camps near Thetford, Vt.; there have been "vacations" as the head of a counselor-in-training-program for the San Francisco Council of Campfire Girls, high in the Sierras at Yuba Pass.

"Bert" plans to contribute her time and talents where needed after she retires. She will keep some hours for reading, needlework, the piano she enjoys and for the gardening she wants to do at her home on a hilltop above Harveys Lake.

find it at the library

By MRS. MARTIN DAVERN

Have you visited the Back Mountain Memorial Library recently and wondered which type of book to choose from the many thousands lining the shelves?

Some of the volumes may have seemed too thick and some too thin, and still others may not have had enough pictures to suit your taste. Or, perhaps you have been asked to speak before your club and you need background information, or maybe you would like books on a new hobby or interest.

If you have ever found yourself in such a quandary, your library staff can offer helpful assistance. Aiding the reader in the selection of books and the intelligent use of the library are among the many duties of library staff members. Perhaps their most important duty is finding the right book for the right person at the right time—seeing that the library patron finds the type of material he wants and helping him use it to the best advantage.

If you want books on special interests, such as raising rabbits, or building a dog house, or naming the new baby, your local library is the place to go.

Requests for reading assistance come most frequently from persons who want help in selecting a suitable fiction or non-fiction book, hobbyists who want to follow up a newly acquired interest, those who feel their formal education was cut short and who are now in a position to "go back" and improve themselves, and from persons who are taking a school course and want some preliminary reading that will give them basic background.

However, the most valuable service the Back Mountain Memorial Library provides is helping people to discover that the world of books is wide and wonderful and entertaining.

on dean's list
