how does your garden grow

Increase the number of flowers on your annuals by pruning. Pinch out terminal buds to induce branching.

Zinnias grow with one stem and a flower at the top. Pinch out the growing tips of the plants and you get branches at leaf axils on the stems. Each branch bears a flower. You thus get many flowers on one plant. Pinching is done by snapping out the tips with your thumb and forefinger.

Cosmos, snapdragons, chrysanthemums, dahlias grown from tubers and a host of other plants respond to pinching. Go over them two or three times and you get bushy plants covered with flowers.

Marigolds are the exception to pinching need. They branch freely without removal of terminal tips.

Pinch in early summer but stop by mid-summer else flower buds fail to open before the season ends. Chrysanthemums fail to bloom before frost comes if growing tips are removed after mid-July

cook books needed for book booth

The four women who are in charge of the Library Book Booth at Back Mountain Memorial Library Auction, Mrs. Dana Crump, Mrs. Robert Fleming, Mrs. Durelle T. Scott and Mrs. Ralph Lewis, report that among the donations are hundreds of children's books, including beautiful readers.

New fiction, biographies, cookbooks and run of the mill, constitute a staggering total of 150 boxes of books stored at the library and in the small building on the library grounds, ready to be transported to the book tent in advance of July 10, 11 and 12.

Mrs. Crump asks that books for the Auction be brought to the Library, not to the Barn. This affords opportunity for librarians to look over the books in advance, and mark them with the correct purchase price.

Recently published cookbooks are greatly in demand. Not too many are in stock. Additions would be welcome.
