obituaries distinguished daughter honored

MRS. ANNIE TREMAYNE

Annie Tremayne, 95, died June 20 at General Hospital, where she had been admitted to the medical service June 16.

Mrs. Tremayne, a former resident of Nanticoke, had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. John Wilson of Huntsville, for several months prior to admittance to the Maple Hill Nursing Home in Lehman 18 months ago.

The former Annie Opie was a native of Cornwall, England. She came to the United States one year before the turn of the century, living in Towanda before moving to the Wyoming Valley five years later. Residence in Nanticoke was from 1923 to 1967. Her husband, William J. Tremayne, owned and operated a store in Nanticoke until his death in 1952. She was a member of First United Methodist Church of Nanticoke.

Surviving are these daughters: Mrs. Wilson of Huntsville; Mrs. Ellen Ichtter of West Nanticoke; Mrs. Annie Keeler, Kingston; Mrs. Thetis Reese, Philadelphia. There are four sons: Howard, of Nanticoke; Arthur, Chase; Donald of Wilkes-Barre; and James, Scranton; 17 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

Burial was Monday in Maple Hill Cemetery, following services from a Nanticoke funeral home. Officiating minister was her pastor, the Rev. E. Kermit Giles.

CHARLOTTE J. NICHOLS

Mrs. Charlotte J. Nichols, 81, of Pikes Creek, died June 24 in Nanticoke General Hospital, where she had been a patient for two weeks.

The former Charlotte Schoenherr was born in Allentown, moving to this area for 49 years. She was a member of Maple Grove United Methodist Church.

Her husband Emerson died in 1944.

She leaves these children: Paul, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Nellie Reina, New Mexico; Harry, Fred, Mrs. Dorothy Dobrowski and Mrs. Grace Marchakits, all of Hunlock Creek RD 2; Mrs. Joyce Wich, of Baltimore; George, Cambridge, Mass.; 26 grandchildren and 39 great-grandchildren.

The Rev. William Rosser conducted service Saturday morning from the Bronson Funeral home. Burial was at Maple Grove.

A. CARL DICK

A. Carl Dick, 72, Overbrook Avenue, suffered a fatal heart attack at his home June 25.

He was a native of Tarrytown, N.Y., educated at Michigan State University.

He was employed as a lighting engineer by various concerns, including Westinghouse

Miss Frances Dorrance, a Distinguished Daughter of Pennsylvania, was honored guest at a luncheon on Monday at the Westmoreland Club, given by another Distinguished Daughter of Pennsylvania, Mrs. John Howell Williams, Philadelphia.

Miss Dorrance, long time resident of the Dallas area, is a life member of the Library Auction Antiques Committee.

She was recently cited by the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies, and the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission for her leadership in historical and archeological affairs in the Commonwealth. The citation took place well in advance of her 93rd birthday, June 30.

Representatives of the Societies met in Reading, and the local Historical and Geological Society adopted the resolution shortly thereafter.

Miss Dorrance is one of the pioneers in formation of the Back Mountain Memorial Library in 1945, and a past president of the organization. She was for some years chief librarian at Hoyt Library in Kingston.

She and her sister, the late Ann Dorrance, lived for some years at Wild Ledges, Huntsville. Miss Dorrance moved to Dallas after the death of her sister.

The section of Kingston called Dorrancecon was named for the family which once made its home in that area.

He leaves his widow, the former Mary Woods; a brother I. B. Dick, of Franklin Lakes, N.J.

Burial was at Fern Knoll, following services conducted by the Rev. Andrew Pillarella from the Harold Snowdon funeral home in Shavertown.

MRS. ANN M. LLEWELLYN

Mrs. Ann M. Llewellyn, under treatment for a heart ailment for two years, died of a heart attack June 24 at her home at Harveys Lake.

She was a native of Jim Thorpe April 8, 1908, in a period when the town was still called Mauch Chunk. She lived for most of her life in Wilkes-Barre and Kingston, moving to Harveys Lake ten years ago.

Church affiliations were with Prince of Peace Episcopal. She was a member of Wilkes-Barre Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Her husband is proprietor of Llewellyn and McKane, Inc., printers and publishers.

She leaves in addition to her husband, these sons: Guy A. Llewellyn Jr., of Shavertown; Dennis J. and John D. Llewellyn, both of Kingston; a daughter, Mrs. Hudson Dean, of Evergreen, Colo.; 12 grandchildren; two sisters: Mrs. Anthony Killeri, of Chevy Chase, D.C.

John Prater, rector of Prince of Peace, conducted Friday morning funeral services from the Bronson Funeral Home in Lehman. Burial was at Maple Grove.

Funeral for daughter

Luncheon honoring members of the Executive Committee of the Wyoming Semi-Annual Association was held at the Back Mountain Club. In attendance were Mrs. Tippet, John Ruggles, Mrs. Lacy, Frank Henry, Mrs. Eggleston, L. Goerndt and Miss Agnes Gregson.

relax, the bell is legal

The 1,000 pound bell which hung in the old steeple of Shavertown Methodist Church will be mounted in solid concrete as a conversation piece in front of the Educational Building, according to the Rev. Robert DeWitt Yost, pastor of the church.

When the old steeple was replaced with an aluminum belfry last fall, the heavy bronze bell, 75 years old, was removed, and since that time has been on display at the Pioneer Avenue entrance to the church.

Records of its origin, with name of the casting plant, along with all other church records, were destroyed in a fire which razed the parsonage a number of years ago.

Many residents have speculated about the origin of the bell, standing mute on the church grounds.

Was it the bell which disappeared from the Prince of Peace fair some years ago? The one which had called students to classes in the old Goss School? That bell was spirited away by strong men in a truck following an evening of good fellowship when everybody who contributed to the building fund was given the privilege of beating a tattoo on the bell, as it hung on a stout framework.

Efforts to locate the bell have so far proved fruitless.

The Rev. Yost dispelled that idea in a hurry.

The bronze bell now on display may have been a companion piece to the old Goss School bell, but it hung in the belfry of Shavertown Methodist Church for 75 years.

The vanishing Goss School bell was sold to Prince of Peace for a small sum of hard money, by authorization of school directors. It had been intended for the belfry of Prince of Peace, but the aperture proved too narrow to admit the bell.

Eventually, Prince of Peace installed a bell from a Lehigh Valley locomotive. Some years ago, its brazen tongue was silenced, and a new type of bell, electrically controlled, went into service.

The whereabouts of the Old Goss School bell remains a mystery. Speculation is that it is in somebody's barn, covered with hay, or astonishing the fishes in a pond. It was too heavy to have wandered far afield. At least six men know where it is.

It took six men to swing it from its stout framework at the fair. It is reasonable to suppose, therefore, that it took six men to take it down and load it into a truck.

The Dallas Post used to get anonymous tips as to its whereabouts, but either the bell moved silently to a new hideout, or the tips were not founded on fact.

baby girl

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Yencharis, 27 West Fallbrook Avenue, Dallas, announce the arrival of a baby girl, their second daughter, June 18 at Wyoming Valley Hospital. Sharon Ann weighed in at seven pounds eleven ounces.

busy, buzzing bees

The Library Auction missed by a hairsbreadth having a hive of angry bees to offer over the block. Bill Moss reports:

"All of a sudden, there was this swarm of what looked like big black flies roaring into the Auction Barn and making for the new goods stall. George McCutcheon and I started batting at them, but they kept on coming.

"And then we noticed they had stripes. Brother, we stopped batting and went outside.

"We got Bill Robbins on the phone, and he came right down, but by that time the queen bee had decided she didn't like the Barn, and had taken off, with the whole swarm trailing her.

"Bill wasn't annoyed. Said it frequently happened. Bill has a way with bees. See him on television a few nights ago? He was gentling a swarm into a hive with his bare hands. It was the photographer that got stung, right on the nose. Bill just went on scooping.
