

View of dining room and living room in barn at Pound Ridge,

'a barn for all seasons' exciting

For the past year I have been experiencing the pleasures of weekending in a 19th century barn, converted into a dwelling. described by one of my young associates as "mind-blowing." I rented this beautiful old strucre from my friends. Mr and Mrs. Miguel de Braganca, quite adequately furnished with chairs, tables and big squashy sofas and lounge chairs, covered in bright orange linen, and a fine, many-branched wroughttin chandelier in suitable scale.

Needless to say, the enormous sweep of the rough old wood walls, which vault to the ridgepole, have challenged me with the kind of space I have rarely had at my command, an irresistible challenge!

I spent most of the summer clinging perilously to an elongated extension ladder, hanging things I had in storage. These "things" include a couple of dozen paintings, both modern and traditional, and my collection of old porcelain platters and chargers—about 60 in all.

The effect of the fine porcelains and paintings against the rough weathered wood was so stunning that I immediately began to brood about the massive chimney breast of rosy old brick, above the fireplace that burns a full-size tree trunk. Here I hung a truly vast historical painting (it's about 12 feet high) at a rakish slant, and from the chimney breast beneath I posed an old figurehead from a ship—a curly-haired lady dressed in blue—attached to the chimney breast by sturdy black chains and leaning outward into the room just as she would be attached to the prow of a ship. Having run out of space on the walls, I turned my attention to the floor space. I used a handbraided area rug before the fireplace, and this seemed to call for a large, round antique Chinese table between the sofas. surrounded by stools, which provided a place for magazines, scrabble games and breakfast. The Chinese table looked fine and this persuaded me to bring out eight Chinese chairs to go around my English 17th century refectory table and two modern rosewood cabinets to hold plates and cutlery.

cia-

icle

unct

tack

for

ters

and

aries

About that time, I ran across eight over-scaled, chunky brass Russian candlesticks that burn big, fat white candles, and I couldn't resist them for the dining table. I hung a pair of scarlet Chinese banners on a bamboo pole from the rafters before the two-story window opposite the fireplace, and laid a brilliant modern V'Soske rug down the the bedroom area.

I then turned my attention to the large loft room reached by a double stairway from the living room. Along the open balustrades of the balcony I hung curtains in a bamboo design against an orange-red background, to give the area a feeling of privacy. Here I placed the television set, a country X table for home work, which I never seem to get around to, two rattan sofas, variegated chairs, a big coffee table and two huge fanciful floor poufs made from a pair of Oriental

This interior, which evades

new class for square dancers

The Circle Eighters Square Dance Club has announced a new class in Western modern square dancing starting Jan. 6. This beginners' class will be held every Tuesday evening in the Wilkes-Barre YMCA auditorium. The intermediate group will meet Fridays and there will be a club dance every Satur-

Couples of every age are welcome. The youngest now participating are 10 and 12 years old and the oldest are retired couples. Cost per lesson is one dollar. Everyone is invited to attend and join the fun.

Carl and Betty Hanks are the callers for this active group. Members of the group have appreared several times on television and have performed is writing for The Post while on vacation. at the Sweet Valley Festival on Memorial Day, the Fiesta on Public Square and at the Harveys Lake Yacht Club. Several of the more advanced dance couples have appeared in Binghamton, Philadelphia and Allen-

Harmony Club holds dinner

The Harmony Club held its annual Christmas dinner party at the home of Mrs. Emmax Hoover Dec. 18 at 1 p.m.

The group had met earlier at the home of Nora Dymond to discuss plans for the dinner. Fannie Berbew was cohostess.

by WILLIAM PAHLMANN center of the enormous room my own poor powers of descrip-, bar. under the tin chandelier, posing tion, is either a triumph of Cocktails were served in the two Italian blackamoors on each eclecticism or the interior degarage, a buffet supper in the side of the doorway leading to signer run amuck, depending on barn living room and eventually your point of view. I love it and guests filtered up to the loft for that's what matters when it liquers and coffee. There was a comes to interiors. It is com- general movement between the > whole thing that I decided to note of charm to the barn prehonor my landlords with a party cincts. to express my gratitude. I If there is any application to fortable, amusing and invites three levels and the bright counconversation and even good talk. try evening clothes, principally I was so pleased with the pants ensembles, added a final banked the living area with be drawn from my "barnshaggy yellow chrysanthemums storming" it is that a basic atand, as an extra fillip, I con- tention to scale and proportion verted the three-car garage and comfort are about the only under the barn into a disco- rules you have to follow in plantheque, with a canopy of color- ning interiors that work. Rigid ful printed sheets by Pucci and rules are apt to produce rigid wall decorations of posters and rooms and flexibility is not only wallpaper samples. I put in a more effective but more in keepsmall platform for dancing, sur- ing with the times. It's correct rounded by tables for four with if you like it, so let yourself go colorful table linens, and a long and live a little.

Purely Personal

Mr. Glendon Prynn, Joliet, III., and formerly of Bunker Hill, is a surgical patient in Silver Cross Hospital, Joliet. He will remain there six weeks, then be confined to his home for six

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Glahn, Bunker Hill, and Marjorie, Lancaster, will spend the holidays with the Rev. and Mrs. David Glahn and son Gregory, Great Barrington, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Christy Austin of Meriden, Conn., visited several days with Mr. Austin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Austin, Main Street, Shavertown being a surgical patient at the General Hospital. Leighton R. Scott is spending the holidays with his aunt, Mrs. Howard Risley. A student at Cambridge, England, Mr. Scott

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Holman, David and Don, Gibsonia, 8 p.m., followed by dancing to Pa., will spend the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith and the music of Lee Vincent and Donna, West Dallas,

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Farrari, North Carolina, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Welton Farrar, Maplewood Ave.,

Scott Fry, Annapolis Naval Academy, will be home for the Dallas, who will begin his holidays with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fry, Elmcrest, George Searfoss is recuperating after a fall from a tree at the ball include Mr. and Mrs. his home at Harveys Lake.

Jean Moledor, school nurse in the Lake-Lehman School District, is a patient in the General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Jones and family and Dr. and Mrs. Durelle Scott Jr., are holiday guests of Mrs. Durelle Scott, Huntsville Road, Dallas.

Book Review

highly unlikely at first that they will ever have more than a nodding acquaintance. The brashly charming scion of a wealthy family, Pierce moves among his peers with the easy assurance of one accustomed to scious of his public school background and his need to earn part of his tuition, hovers uncertainly on the fringe of Yale's rigidly stratified society. But, as it turns out, each has something to offer that the other always tension-filled friendship.

easy peace that follows, Pierce and Ben jockey for position in on what he is than on what he appears to be. The women they relationship. When Pierce takes

Ben's Angela, Ben suspects that it is only because she was his.

And, later, the lovely Lily, pulled first toward one and then toward the other, delicately drives a wedge deeper and deeper between them. Finally,

it is Lily who pushes the story to its inevitably harsh climax.

Tired of non-novels, of characters with bizarre pleasures and motives that are difficult to understand? Do you yearn for a well-written, conventionally structured story? Then "Who Took the Gold Away" is your meat, no matter what your age.

It's not a great novel, but it's a good one, and it's recommended snowy evening. It is available at the Back Mountain, Osterhout

and Abington libraries.

Against a background of the

by BETTY SCHECHTER and Ben Moseley are assigned

WHO TOOK THE GOLD AWAY

This book is bound to have a special appeal for the saddle shoes and white bucks generation. It celebrates the era when they were young, and it presents once their aspirations, and proach. Ben, painfully conwhose values are the ones they were encouraged, for better or worse, to respect. And it does it all very well. John Leggett's characters are believable, the problems they struggle with are real, and what they do with their lives has the ring of truth. Although, as newly arrived freshmen at Yale, Pierce Jay

Goulds celebrate 30th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Milford H. Gould of Trucksville have celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary.

Mr. Gould is the owner of Antique and Classic Cars, Trucksville. The couple was married in Wilkes-Barre by the late Rev. Llewellyn Thomas. Mrs. Gould is the former Peggy Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas of Newport Street, Ashley.

Mr. Gould is the son of Mrs. Vida Gibbons, 172 South Washington St., Wilkes-Barre.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. Gould's sister, Ruth Thomas, and Donald Hoffman.

carollers

entertain

Brown Manor

Residents of Brown Manor were entertained with Christmas carols sung by neighborhood youngsters Sunday afternoon. Following the singing the group was treated to hot chocolate and cookies at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles The carollers included: Scott and Eric Davidson, Loretta Donnelly, Brian Parente, Lenny Falcone, Cathy and Colleen Campbell, Ellie and Charles Falcone, Philip and Ellen Rowe, and Kimmi Hood. Mrs. Alfred Donnelly was director of the oung minstrels.

Many of the neighbors exneighborhood.

party given

for debutantes

Idetown and Huntsville couples hosted a "coming in" party Monday, Dec. 22, for five debutantes. The parties were given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schellenberg of Idetown and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Casper of Huntsville. The parties were at the Castle Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Epstein Jr. of Forty Fort also were hosts.

The five debutantes who were the guests of honor were Burrell E. Montz, Linda Ann Troup, Sara Bell Parkhurst, Margaret L. Townend and Marcy Scott Robinson.

Harveys Lake Yacht Club ball set

The annual Commodore's Ball sponsored by the Harveys Lake Yacht Club will be held Saturday, Dec. 27, at the Doris R. Mallin, Pinecrest Avenue, Dallas, is home after Irem Temple Country Club, dance chairmen Atty. and Mrs. B. Todd Maguire have announced.

Ballroom decorations will be carried out in the traditional 'nautical Christmas' theme. A cocktail hour will begin at his orchestra.

A highlight of the evening will be the passing of the blackplumed admiral's hat to each of the Club's past commodores. The hat will come to rest this year on the head of Robert Casselberry, Hilldonia Ave., second term of service as commodore of the Yacht Club.

Other committee chairmen for John Peipon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Casselberry, Mr. and Mrs. William Futch, Mr. and Mrs. John Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sgarlat, Mr. and Mrs. William Dantona Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Bourke and Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Bunn.

area newcomers

Mr. and Mrs. James Hablett moved to 28 Meadowcrest to the same dormitory, it seems Trucksville. They moved from York, Pa. Mr. Hablett works for Flair Footwear Co.

> Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edwards moved to 27 Orchard St. Trucksville. They moved from Greenbelt, Md. Mr. Edwards works for Drake Bakery Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Luksig moved to 106 E. Franklin St., people whose aspirations were seeing doors open at his ap-Shavertown. They moved from Luzerne. Mr. Luksig works for State Farm Insurance.

> Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Tamanini moved to 102 Carverton Road, Trucksville. They moved from Luzerne. Mr. Tamanini is in the heavy equipment business.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Farber moved to 17 Division St., covets, and soon the two boys Shavertown, from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J. Mr. Farber is a are locked in an enduring but heating contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Thomas moved to Loyalville, RD 2, Second World War and the un- Dallas. Mr. Thomas works for Northeastern National Bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Yeager moved to 78 Meadowcrest St., a milieu that judges a man less Trucksville. He works for Back Mountain Lumber.

Mr. and Mrs. John Konopki moved to 245 Meadowcrest St., meet complicate and sour their Trucksville. Mr. Konopki works for Arlan's Department Store.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gabel moved to 208 Meadowcrest St...

Trucksville. Mr. Gabel works for Valley Vending Co. Mr. and Mrs. Allen Williams moved to 69 Perrin Ave., Shavertown, from Kingston. Mr. Williams is with the Stegmaier Brewing Mr. and Mrs. John Skursky moved to Ellen Drive, Brown

Manor, from Wyoming. Mr. Skursky works for United Parcels Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Appel moved to RD 3, Wyoming. He

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klimas moved to Harveys Lake. Mr. Klimas is a construction worker.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Liller moved to 114 Carverton Road, as a pleasant companion on a Trucksville. Mr. Liller is a machinist.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Scull moved to Harveys Lake. Mr. Scull works at Duke Isaacs Auto Agency.

library fails on state standards

Definitions of minimum ade- Mountain Memorial Library or less than one volume for quate public library service should be open 35 hours per every person in the library's have been established for the week and receive at least 50 first time in Pennsylvania's periodicals. In addition to that the Back Mountain Me-should contain 1.5 "currently morial Library falls short of useful" book titles per capita. these standards.

bottom minimums," Richard up-to-date reference materials nual holiday event in their velopment, stated that they not be considered "currently 'actually identify the poorest useful," for example quality of public library ser-number of people served.

Council's figures, the Back 000 "currently useful" volumes figure."

"Currently useful" is library Calling the standards "rock-terminology to indicate how is an electrician.

Mrs. Martin Davern, librarian The standards deal primarily Library, points out that the with hours of service and size library is open 34 hours per of collections based upon the week and receives only 44 periodicals. Moreover, she notes, According to the Advisory the library has fewer than 20,

"With the library's present history, and it has been noted this, the library's collection means of financial support, primarily the Library Auction, Mrs. Davern states, "it is impossible for us to come up to these standards.'

She suggests that library pressed the hope that Christmas Thomson, chairman of the Ad- are: An atlas which does not usage has increased rapidly and carolling would become an an-visory Council on Library De-show Africa's new states would warrants additional support. year 1968 was 55,797 and represented an increase of 1,836 at the Back Mountain Memorial books signed out over last year's circulation. In the first 8 months of this year alone.' she said, "there has been an increase in circulation of 3,652 books over last year's total

Harveys Lake Yacht Club plans are being made by Mrs. B. Todd Maguire and Mrs. Robert L. Casselberry, seated left to right. Standing are B. Todd Maguire, commodore and Robert L. Casselberry.