The Dallas Post (SAFFIAN)

Seventh graders of Dallas Junior High School participated in a mass "brush-in" Feb. 12 under the direction of Luzerne County Dental Society and Pennsylvania Department of Health. Students applied a new decay preventing paste which is supposed to guard against and reduce cavities from 40 to 95 percent for one year.

Kingston Twp. citizens to work with youth

At a time when many people admit they don't understand the youth of today, Kingston Township citizens are making a special effort to better understand and work closer with them. At last week's meeting, the board of supervisors were favorably received and will undergo further investigation and discussion.

A teenage spokesman, Lawrence Cummings, presented the first plan after prior approval of the Kingston Township police force which is headed by Chief Herbert Updyke. Lawrence suggested that a youth organization be formed to work in close contact with the police and to assist them whenever possible. The young men and women would work primarily with juvenile officer Cliff Culver, probably along lines suggested by the Junior Sheriff's Association. Attorney Benjamin R. Jones III, Kingston Township solicitor, offered to obtain further information on the association for the group.

The second proposal, presented in a letter written by the Rev. Charles F. Gommer Jr., was to form a Back Mountain Youth Council. The council could assist young people before possible crimes are committed. The program could be designed to deal in depth with young people who are in trouble before they come to the attention of juvenile court authorities and would be a positive response of the community to youth.

It was suggested in Rev. Gommer's letter that a board be formed consisting of Clifford Culver, juvenile officer; Mary Ward, home and school visitor; the Rev. Charles Gommer, chaplain, Luzerne County juvenile court; W. R. Mather's, Kingston Township supervisor; a member of the Dallas School Board and four young people, two boys and two girls, to be elected by the Dallas High School student body.

valentines for patients

Dallas Girl Scout Troop 706 entertained the patients at the Carpenter Convalescent Home, Harveys Lake, on Valentine's Day. They served punch and cupcakes decorated with red candy hearts.

Troop members sang hymns for the patients and were accompanied on the organ by scout Debbie Foss.

FISH - help; call 675-5272

Residents of Back Mountain communities began calling 675-5272 this week for help. Fish volunteers responded promptly and the Back Mountain good neighbor plan was officially launched.

Volunteers for the first few days performed various duties such as transporting a sick person to the doctor's office, baby sitting in an emergency and doing housework for an invalid. Other services offered by the dedicated group are reading to the blind, providing meals, picking up prescriptions, companionship for the elderly, teenage-adult consultations and referral services to agencies when professional help is needed. There is no charge for any service performed by Fish.

If you wish to help in this community project you may contact Mrs. John S. Prater for further information. Nearly 100 Fish volunteers are presently available to assist in an emergency. You may reach them immediately by calling 675-5272.

Dallas Baptists hold Bible survey course

The Dallas Baptist Church will begin teaching a Bible survey course starting with the book, "An Introduction to the Bible," Feb. 22. The series includes eight volumes and is offered to the youth and adults each Sunday evening from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Shavertown man plunges into creek

Elmer T. Lamoreaux, 9 W. Franklin St., Shavertown, escaped apparent injury when the automobile he was driving went out of control on Pioneer Avenue, Dallas, and plunged into the creek on the left side of the road. The accident happened Feb. 12 at 7:15 p.m.

Dallas Township police report Mr. Lamoreaux was traveling north when he was blinded by the headlights of an approaching vehicle. He lost control of his new 1970 Plymouth and the machine proceeded across the Clarence Laidler property and landed on its roof in the creek. The car was towed from the scene by Wesley's Gulf Station.

The first volume is designed to lay a foundation for understanding the Bible as the written revelation of God to man. The second volume, "How to Study the Bible," is written to help the layman develop good Bible study habits. The remaining volumes are planned to guide the student in a survey of the entire Bible.

During the hour of study, children can begin to study with "The Story of Joseph." A nursery will also be provided.

The Rev. Riley George is pastor of the Dallas Baptist Church, located off Memorial Highway at 42 Mill St., Dallas.

Lake man arrested by Nanticoke police

Richard Tattersall, Pole 27, Warden Place, Harveys Lake was arrested Feb. 13 by Nanticoke City police at the parking lot that he operated on South Main Street, Wilkes-Barre. He was charged with pointing a deadly weapon and malicious mischief to a motor vehicle.

He was taken into custody by Capt. Anthony Osolnick, Sgt. Frank Reguluski and patrolman Anthony Nork of the Nanticoke police, assisted by Sgt. John Smith and Detective Joseph Donnelly of the Wilkes-Barre Police Department.

A preliminary arraignment was held before District Magistrate Leonard C. Olzinski, 30 E. Broad St., Nanticoke. The charge of pointing a deadly weapon was preferred by George Poslock, 1 W. Broad St., Nanticoke. The charge of malicious mischief was referred by Thaddeus J. Wadas, 205 Fairchild St., Nanticoke. It is alleged that following an argument Feb. 8 on Ridge and Market Street, that Mr. Tattersall pointed a loaded pistol and then proceeded to Ridge and Prospect Streets where he damaged the Wadas vehicle. The front windshield and two side windows of the 1966 Oldsmobile were smashed. Bail of $1,500 was posted by Romayne C. Tattersall, wife of the accused.
