

Dallas Chorale begins spring concert season

After rehearsing for a period of ten weeks, the Dallas Women's Club Chorale will begin their concert season May 5 with a program for the Dallas Junior Woman's Club and their guests at the May Tea. The program will feature old show tunes, vaudeville favorites and hits from Broadway. In keeping with the space age the program will be a "Musical Trip to the Moon."

On May 7 the Chorale will perform for members of the Bethel Baptist Church at their annual family banquet. The Wyoming Women's Club will be entertained May 12 and the Dallas Senior Woman's Club will hear the Chorale on the May 13.

Patients at Valley Crest will see the show and the Senior Citizens Group will also be entertained.

The Chorale will conclude their program for the month of May with a performance at the Fine Arts Fiesta on Public Square in Wilkes-Barre. This will be the sixth year that the chorale has had the privilege of working with the fine arts group and an open invitation is issued to the public to come and hear the Woman's Club Chorale.

The group's schedule for June will be published at a later date. Chorale director is Mrs. David Wojciechowski and the pianist is Mrs. Walter Steltz.

Shown as they prepare for their series of spring concerts are the 24 members of the Chorale. They are seated first row, from the left: Mrs. James Balmer, Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. Daniel Meeker, Mrs. Joseph Kaminski, Mrs. John McGoe, Mrs. Walter Steltz, pianist, and Mrs. David Wojciechowski, director.

The second fire, April 30, was an automobile owned by George Casterline, Harveys Lake, which caught fire in front of Yalick Brothers Farm Produce stand on the Harveys Lake Highway. Eight firemen extinguished the blaze using Purple-K, a dry chemical, under the direction of Asst. Fire Chief Don Bulford.

Lake Silkworth

I am surely glad you don't go horseback riding seated on your hands or I would not be able to write this week. Our horse-loving daughter's pride and joy was feeling his oats after the long winter and needed some of the vim and vinegar ridden out of him lest he zig when he was expected to zag with one of our inexperienced offspring aboard his broad back.

My size (certainly not my shape) made me the logical choice for the job, not that I minded. Still, by Saturday, I was glad when a couple of would-be jockey friends happened along.

Arch would be a jockey if his wife allowed him and Gail would be another if his mother consented. With Gail's fashionable haircut, except for the color, you couldn't tell where the flowing mane of the horse left off and Gail's began! At any rate, our Golden Girl now rides her Silver Steed with much more confidence and we all breathe a little easier. Even Grandma can't resist the old plug's muzzly affection, and I'll bet before this summer is over she'll be showing us a thing or two about horseback riding we thought she'd forgotten!

Harry Zeig Jr., his wife Cheryl, and their pretty little pixie daughter, Kelly, have moved their trailer home from its former location on Route 29 to their plot of ground adjacent to Harry's parents' property on Hartman Road.

Dick and Barbara London and their two handsome sons, from whom the young Zeig family purchased the trailer, have been living in the new home Dick built since before Christmas. Dick's spare time is put to good use building cupboards and cabinets and, in general, putting the finishing touches on his work.

Jack and Mabel McKeel are hard at work on their new home which had to be postponed awhile when the McKeel sawmill burned. Already, much of the outside framework has been erected. Soon, Warren and Leann will be able to do all those things they've been planning to do: "when we get in our new house!"

Bob and Gail Road are making preparations to move their recently acquired trailer-home to their property located at Dushore, Pa.

The new trailer court planned by Al Radginski on Route 29 south of Lake Silkworth is slowly taking shape. Excavation is being hampered by April showers and the soil's being already saturated with water.

A young, light-colored, female German police dog with an injured left hind leg has been hanging round and, at night, sleeping in the stable with Sally's horse. Our attempts to befriend the beautiful animal have been unsuccessful and we don't even know if the dog wears a license or collar.

The recently organized Boy Scout Troop 440 of Lake Silkworth is becoming bigger and better all the time. Scoutmaster David Wildoner, assisted by Sheldon Lamoreaux Sr., has his scouts marching and learning wood lore each practicable Saturday. Meetings are held each Wednesday night in the Lake Silkworth Volunteer Fire Hall and any boy interested in becoming a member of the troop, or even visiting at a meeting, is welcome. They are interested in you. Presently each scout is embarked on his own private project to earn his uniform; so, all you residents of Lake Silkworth and vicinity, keep these fine lads in mind when you have yard work or cleaning-up to do.

John Wildoner got his wife, Jane, an early birthday present—one of those diggin' riggins that plow and harrow a garden plot at the same time. What's more he's even volunteered to hold the lantern so she can work longer hours at night.

We live directly across the road from a cemetery. Contrary to some folks' assumption, we do not have fresh-cut flower centerpieces each time there's a funeral! But the wind has blown some plastic ones our way and a vivid hyacinth of super proportions adorns our mailbox post. The gravestones have always presented a hazard to our mixed-heritage hound, Herman, too. Whenever he chases an airplane and its flight path goes over the graveyard, there's always the danger that he might collide with a gravestone and knock out what few teeth he has left!

Walter Glogowski re-elected Dallas DEA president

Walter Glogowski, the graphic arts teacher at the Dallas Junior High School, was re-elected president of the Dallas Education Association at the April meeting. Other officers elected to serve with him are John Johnson, first vice president; Marcella Nagorski, second vice president; Judy Roeder, secretary, and Lena Moore, treasurer.

The officers will be installed by Robert Rowlands, Luzerne County School Superintendent, at the annual spring dinner that will be held next Saturday night at the Fox Hill Country Club.

Mr. Glogowski is a graduate of Wilkes College and has done additional graduate work at Millersville State College. While at Wilkes, he compiled an outstanding record as a varsity wrestler. He taught for several years in the Plymouth High School prior to coming to Dallas.

Auto wrecked on Main Street

A car parked off the road on Main Street, Dallas, was demolished April 25 at 11:45 p.m., when struck by a vehicle driven by William Howell, RD 5, Shavertown. The destroyed automobile, a 1969 Ford sedan, was owned by Richard Ross Jr., Kingston, and was parked in front of the Joseph P. Brennan residence, 191 Main St.

Dallas borough patrolman Sev Newberry arrested Mr. Howell, who claimed he had fallen asleep, for driving under the influence of alcohol. Bail was set at $500 pending a hearing May 5 before Justice of the Peace Harry Thompson. Assisting Patrolman Newberry at the scene of the accident was Special Patrolman Ted Montross.

Dallas Boro Council okays construction on Newberry Estate

Dallas Borough Council has approved the construction of multiple family dwellings on the portion of the Newberry Estate that lies within the borough. Council granted a limited acceptance to existing zoning laws to allow the Troup Fund, Inc. to construct its condominium development.

President Edwin Delaney proposed that council amend the present ruling on trailers, or add a clause, that will penalize firms or individuals keeping trailers on land within the borough beyond the stated time granted by council. Council voted to fine violators, who do not remove a trailer after the specified time, $25 a day.
