

former Dallas resident receives Kodak promotion

William G. Hart, former resident of Dallas, has been named assistant superintendent of Eastman Kodak Company's synthetic chemicals division, part of the manufacturing services organization at Kodak Park Division, Rochester, New York. Norman F. Beach, vice president and general manager of Kodak Park, announced the appointment.

Kodak's synthetic chemicals division plays a key role in development and quality control of many synthetic organic chemicals used in photographic film and paper manufacture. In addition, a portion of the division's production is sold outside the company. Mr. Hart was formerly department head of the Eastman Chemical department in the same division, named to that position in 1965.

He began his Kodak career in 1952 as a development chemist in the synthetic chemicals division. Mr. Hart was appointed senior chemist in the new chemicals development department in 1957, and became supervisor of new products development in 1962. Mr. Hart, the son of the late Helen L. Hart, a native of Dallas, graduated from Dallas Township High School and earned a B.A. degree in chemistry and biology at Wilkes College in 1952. He was employed at The Dallas Post as a sports writer while attending college. He has a sister, Mrs. Robert C. Monk, living in Shavertown.

visitors project to train personnel

The Home and School Visitor Project, sponsored by the Luzerne County Board of School Directors, has developed a training program for home and school visitors for Region M. The program is open to interested school personnel and social welfare agency staff on a tuition-free basis.

All courses, on a graduate level offered in cooperation with Wilkes College through the graduate division, may be used to meet the state regulations for certification.

The Home and School Visitor Project has organized two five-week summer sessions. All courses will be offered through Wilkes College and will meet four days per week, Monday through Thursday.

The first session will be held June 17 to July 21. The second session will begin July 27 and end Aug. 27.

All courses will meet at Wilkes College, Parrish Hall, in Room 25.

He and his wife and their sons, Kenneth, William and Lawrence, live at 512 Black Walnut Drive, Greece, N.Y. He has been an active member of the Rochester Jaycees and is a member of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce. In addition to his Boy Scout activities, Mr. Hart is also a past vice president and board member of the Seneca Zoological Society, and served as a math and science curriculum advisory

Dallas council approves ordinance for $56,000 loan

Dallas Borough Council has approved an ordinance to borrow $56,000 for capital expenditures for municipal improvements, a sum certified by the Pennsylvania Department of Community Affairs. It will be borrowed from the United Penn Bank at four and a half percent interest over a five year period.

Council questioned paying individual contractors' bills before the work is complete.

Council requested that contractors working on the borough building change the locks on the doors to the magistrate's offices due to complaints regarding doors being left open. The tumbler will be changed and keys issued to the district magistrate and his secretary and one key will be kept in the police office in case of emergency.

One bid for road materials was received from American Asphalt Paving Co. and approved by council. Councilman Jerry Machell reported that work on patching, grading and oiling borough roads is progressing. Council voted on recommendation to pave the extension of Machell Avenue.

A resident of Hyler Avenue, Stonehedge, appeared to request the borough to take over the road. After some discussion, it was established that if David Perry builds a road at his own expense, the design for the road must have the approval of the borough engineer and meet borough specifications before it will be acquired.

The legality of a one-way street sign placed on the alley next to the borough building by order of council president Edwin Delaney was questioned. In addition some members of council felt that the sign, a safety measure, would make moving borough trucks and equipment more difficult. The matter was referred to the police and road committees for further study.

Lake Silkworth

Being an amateur bird-watcher myself, I thoroughly enjoyed Rev. Gilbert's comments about his song sparrow in his May 14 column for two reasons. First while I am only an amateur bird-watcher, I am a "professional appreciator" of our feathered friends. Second, my bigger and better half has a high-frequency hearing loss, too. So now, if I speak with a lion-like roar, you know why.

asked how she'd enjoyed her tour, replied: "Oh, about half," which means she thoroughly enjoyed it but she was too tired to talk about it then.

The Reverend's song-sparrow must be one of those birds whose song I have not yet identified with the singer; because the sparrows I am familiar with do anything but sing! They nest under the eaves at the back of the house just above our bedroom windows and are the most quarrelsome of neighbors. They are so prolific that I'm just waiting for the announcement that some scientist has discovered a successful birth-control pill for them. I'll be the first to rush and purchase a bushel and serve the birds a banquet. I can't bring myself to tear their nests out when there are eggs or young birds in them (which is just about all the time); but I was glad last spring when a big, old black starling pre-empted one old hen sparrow and occupied her nest till the starling's young hatched and finally flew away.

On behalf of the community, sympathy is extended to the Emery Reakes family whose infant son died at birth. Baby Boy Reakes is survived, in addition to his parents, by sisters, Cheryl (Mrs. Harry Zweig Jr.) and Mary, at home.

The den meeting for Cub Scout Pack 440 was cancelled this week because Den Mom's (Sue Hillman's) littlest angel has measles. Shirley Sayre said her daughter's Brownie meeting was cancelled because their leader's little one has measles, too. Seems like there's a rash of that going round!

open house

Special "Open House and Pool Dedication" are scheduled for June 7 at Camp Louise, multi-purpose camp of Penn's Woods Girl Scout Council. The 363-acre tract, located in Briar Creek about seven miles north of Berwick on the Jonestown Road, provides excellent opportunities for study of nature, birds, trees and conservation for campers of Penn's Woods.

The starling's whistle is melodious compared to the argumentative prattle of the sparrow. But, if I thought the sparrows were dirty birds, they're nothing compared to the starling! Fortunately, neither the sparrows or the starlings are "lousy" like the pretty little wren who insisted on nesting in our mailbox the past few summers. She'll be surprised to find the new mailbox without the convenient mail slot that our BTO put up; but if she scouts around, she'll find the old one with nest intact overlooking the garden.

Thanks to the investigative efforts of Lehman Township's Chief of Police, there is one litterbug having second thoughts, at least, about the three huge bags of trash dumped off on one of our township's roads Wednesday evening, May 13.
