

Dallas Boy Scouts elect new officers

A meeting of Troop 281, Dallas, was recently held at the Dallas United Methodist Church. Cliff Kozemchak, Senior Patrol leader, opened the meeting.

John Juris, Scoutmaster, announced a date change for Parents' Night, Sept. 24, 7 p.m. A newspaper drive, a joint project of Boy Scout Troop 281 and Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Dallas United Methodist Church, was discussed, and announcement of the date of the drive will be announced soon. A date as to when you can deliver the papers to the collection center, will also be announced.

The topic of the meeting was troop elections. The boys voted for officers in the troop for the new scouting season: Jack Cobleigh, senior patrol leader; Scott Slocum, asst. senior patrol leader, Bob Casselberry and Earl Phillips, quartermasters. Other officers are Jeff McDonald, scribe; and John Reese, troop librarian. Flying Eagle Patrol needed a new patrol leader, and Roger Sherman was voted to fill that vacancy.

Final announcement was of Eagle Scout Cliff Kozemchak's recent appointment as an instructor to new scouts upon their induction into the troop. Scott Slocum, asst. senior patrol leader, officially closed the meeting.
