two cars damaged in Rt. 309 crash

The intersection at Center Hill Road and Route 309 was the scene of a two-car accident Tuesday, Oct. 6, at 3:27 p.m.

Patrolman Carl Miers, Dallas Township, reported the two drivers involved were Anthony Sperlazzo, 38, of 933 Narrow St., West Wyoming, and George Lamoreaux, 88, of RD 4, Dallas. Miers said neither was injured. The account given was that Sperlazzo was traveling north on Route 309. Lamoreaux's car was proceeding across the highway from Center Hill Road to Hilderbrandt Road, but did not get across before being struck by the Sperlazzo vehicle.

Damage to the Lamoreaux automobile was estimated at $350; the Sperlazzo car, $300. Both machines were driven away.

soil surveys

Soil surveys for agricultural purposes are important, but information found in a soil survey can be used for a great variety of other purposes, point out extension soil specialists at The Pennsylvania State University. They can be used to locate safe industrial and stable home sites, to evaluate soil conditions for highways, airports and pipelines, and to select sites for open spaces, lakes and recreation areas. They are used also for determining the species of flowers, shrubs, trees and lawn grasses that will grow and thrive best and may be used as a basis for health ordinances, zoning and building codes.

God can heal you.
