sports show to sponsor open archery tournament

The Eastern Sports and Outdoor Show working through the Archery Tournament Committee, Roy Fisher, chairman, of Burnham, and Beverly Fisher, co-chairman, of Burnham, will again sponsor an Open Archery Tournament. Exciting to competitors and interesting to spectators, this highlight of archery will be held at the State Farm Show Building, Harrisburg, during the 16th Annual Eastern Sports and Outdoor Show, Feb. 8 thru 13, 1971.

The Eastern Sports and Outdoor Show archery committee will make all arrangements and assists. Interested competitors to shoot during one of the scheduled day rounds. There will be competition for both bare bow and free style archers. The range will open daily at 3 p.m.

Daily class winners will be eligible to compete for show class championships on Saturday. An individual may win only one first place award in each division during the show except on Saturday during finals for show class champions. Additional rules and regulations may be announced by the committee and all decisions made by the committee shall be final.

Men and Women, free style and bare bow, will all compete in their own separate class and division. made by the committee shall be final.

Men and Women, free style and bare bow, will all compete in their own separate class and division. P.S.A.A. or N.F.A.A. field classification cards will be honored in determining classification.

The events will be A.I.A.A., American Indoor Archery Association, 60 foot round consisting of three games, each of 20 arrows, five arrows to an end, four ends scored 5-4-3-2-1 on a 20' A.I.A.A. official face (100 perfect game, 300 perfect series). Archers need not be A.I.A.A. members to compete.

Each day the two high scores in each class in each division in which there is competition will be awarded trophies. Plaques will be awarded to the class champions of the show in the finals. The high scorer in each class each day will be guests of the show for the finals Feb. 13, starting at 3 p.m. when the class winners of each division will compete for class champion of the Eastern Sports and Outdoor Show.

There will be a participant registration fee of $2.00 for each event. Contestants will be required to register at the archery range to receive a target assignment. Registration for each event will close 15 minutes prior to the starting of that event.

A wide variety of archery equipment and accessories will be on display during the show.

Dallas goes down to Coughlin High in non-league tilt

by Jon Jay LaBerge

Coughlin, with a 20 point third quarter, increased their one point halftime lead and went on to defeat Dallas last Monday, 67-57, in a non-League contest.

Dallas took an early seven point lead midway through the first period only to have it cut to one at the quarter. The game remained close through the remainder of the first half as the lead exchanged hands several times with Coughlin in command 28-27 at half.

Pesotski was the game's leading scorer with 21 on 7 field goals and 7 foulshots. Dallas was paced by Tim Fannick with 15, Labatch with 11, and Hoffecker with 10

Dallas was plagued with fouls as two Mountaineers collected five fouls and were forced to leave the game.

The J.V. game also went to Coughlin as the Mountaineer J.V. team ended its exhibition season with a 4 and 2 record.

The Mountaineers open up the regular season Tuesday night at home against Crestwood.

Pa. continues atop big game standings

Although some unfounded doubts have been expressed about Pennsylvania's standing as a big game state, a national compilation by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service shows that the Keystone State is holding its own among the leaders.

Because of varying season dates and complexities in setting up a national compilation, latest figures available are for last year.

Last year 116,684 hunters reported harvesting whitetail deer in Pennsylvania, more than in any state other than Texas. However, the national deer leader produced some 2,500 fewer turkeys than the Keystone State, and only two black bears. Last year's bear harvest was the second lowest in a half dozen years in Pennsylvania, and was a factor in closing the bruin season in the state this year.

Even so, the 295 reported taken here placed Pennsylvania 6th on the national list. No state that produced more bears than the Keystone State had deer and turkey harvests anywhere near comparable to ours.

Pennsylvania, Alabama, Florida and Texas are the national leaders in turkey harvests traditionally, and last year Pennsylvania was ranked first with over 22,500 birds tagged. This figure includes the bearded birds taken during the spring gobbler season.

Actually, the wild turkey is classified as a small game bird in Pennsylvania, but nationally it is considered to be a big game species.

report cards due from deer hunters

Successful deer hunters in Pennsylvania are again reminded by the Game Commission to return their report cards to Harrisburg.

The Game Law provides that hunters who harvest a deer shall file a report on the white-tail taken. The report is to be filed with the Game Commission.

The report card is part of the hunting license, and should simply be detached, filled in and dropped in the mail. Postage is paid by the Game Commission.

A penalty is provided for successful deer hunters who fail to report their kills.

2 men cruise on sailboat

George Jacobs, 164 N. Pioneer Ave., Shavertown, left for a 16-week cruise of the Caribbean with Charles Malke-mas, formerly of Shavertown. They are sailing on Charles' 26-foot trimaron sailboat.

Hunters often think of the western states as "the" big game states because of the presence of elk, moose, sheep, goats, etc. found there. However, the national compilation shows there aren't as many of these species harvested as some might suppose.

For instance, only five states have elk harvests in excess of 10,000; none took more than 21,000. Only two states had moose harvests in excess of 1,000. Only two states had antelope harvests above the 10,000 mark.

As a big game state, Pennsylvania doesn't have to take a back seat to anybody.
