C.M. Will Offer New Curriculum For Elementary Education Majors

College Misericordia has announced the implementation of a new curriculum for elementary education majors to begin in the fall semester, 1971, which will lead to endorsement of Early Childhood Education and can lead to dual certification in both elementary and early childhood education. Entitled "Early Childhood Education," the curriculum consists of four courses (12 credits).

Sister Regina Kelly, RSM, academic dean of College Misericordia, lists the need for qualified early childhood education personnel as "urgent." Statistics published in 1969, according to Sister Regina, indicate that there are approximately 20 million children in the United States today under the age of five. In 1975, there will be 25 million, and in 1980, 28 million. If public kindergarten becomes compulsory and if voluntary programs for the education of pre-schoolers continue at the rate at which they are currently expanding, then the urgency of preparing qualified teachers for early childhood education readily becomes apparent, Sister Regina said.

"To date," according to Sister Regina, "very few states have teachers adequately prepared to meet the needs of teaching the young child. Few states have any kind of certification requirements for 'pre-school' personnel. If early childhood education is to merit the name education, then it must become more than a 'babysitting' service."

"Therefore, sensing the urgency of having well-qualified teachers of early childhood education, College Misericordia is implementing a program which includes theory and philosophy of early childhood education, experimental knowledge, and development of leadership in this area."

The College Misericordia program will be under the direction of Sister Mary Noreen Muherin, RSM, assistant professor of education at the college.

Rev. Anderson earned his A.B. degree at Union College, Ky., in 1967 and is a graduate of Dallas Senior High School. While attending the Seminary, he served as assistant pastor at Twinbrook Baptist Church, Rockville, Md.

Rev. Anderson and his wife, the former Gail O'Day of Seaford, Del., are currently residing at 4400 Massachusetts Ave., Washington.

New Dock Causes Concern at Lake

A dock presently under construction at Harveys Lake has precipitated considerable controversy among several residents of Point Breeze, the lake neighborhood in which the dock is being built.

Reported owner of the new dock is Anthony Perugino, proprietor of Perugino's Villa in Wilkes-Barre. Several neighbors, including Mrs. William Sherksnas, Mrs. William F. Purcell, and Mrs. Ambrose Findora, have suggested that the dock is being built without proper regard for county zoning ordinances.

Clarence Laidler, Luzerne County zoning officer, denies that this is the case. Mr. Laidler told The Post that his office approved an application for a dock submitted by Mr. Perugino and issued a building permit for its construction May 19. The permit was issued, he stated, because the plans submitted by Mr. Perugino were in accordance with the county's zoning laws.

The dock will be a multi-level structure, without sanitary facilities, Mr. Laidler reports.

Luzerne County's zoning ordinances regulate zoning in 26 of the 74 Luzerne County political divisions. Zoning codes established by individual communities supersede the county code, Mr. Laidler reported, but Harveys Lake Borough has not enacted its own zoning ordinances.
