

Kozemchak To Attend Junior Leader Camp

Cliff Kozemchak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kozemchak, Overbrook Avenue, Dallas, has been selected as one of six Boy Scouts of District 2, Penn Mountains Council, Boy Scouts of America, who will attend the Junior Leader Instructor Training Camp at Schiff Scout Reservation, Mendham, N.J. The camp training session will begin Aug. 15 and conclude the 27.

Cliff Kozemchak

The purpose of this camp is to prepare qualified junior leaders to assist in training events when they return home. Assistance may be given in district or council training sessions, in troops and in camp. Emphasis is given to the skills of leadership and techniques of instruction. This is an exciting 12-day experience, putting into practice the patrol method. Members of the staff are picked for their ability to teach and to give leadership to the boys. Schiff Scout Reservation is a national training center of the Boy Scouts of America.

Cliff is an Eagle Scout with silver palm, having earned 41 merit badges. He has been a member of Boy Scout Troop 281 of Dallas for five years, having served one year as senior patrol leader. He is now serving the troop as an instructor.

Troop 281 Earns Badges at Camp

Troop 281, Dallas United Methodist Church, recently returned from a successful week at Boy Scout Camp Acahela.

Time that was not used on rank, merit badges, and special contests, was spent swimming, canoeing, hiking, on the rifle range, at the archery field, or just plain relaxing in the beautiful wilderness. John Juris, scoutmaster, would like to congratulate the troop on its success at camp. Over 100 merit badges were awarded to the boys. The Bear Claw award, for scouts who live by the Scout Law, was awarded to Jeff McDonald, Scott Slocum, Bill Dierolf, Dave Dierolf, Shawn McGee, Cliff Kozemchak, and Frank Hazeltine.

Special contests included a staff hunt, in which members of the camp staff were hunted in a game similar to hide-and-seek; a skill-mill contest of scouting skills; and a water carnival contest of swimming events. A winning streak underway, the boys of the troop won all three events. Thursday evening saw Frank Hazeltine, Brett Slocum, Kevin McGee, Dave Casselberry, Dave Dierolf, and Jim Dierolf taken into the Order of The Arrow, a sacred honor camper society.

Miss Passarella is a junior at College Misericordia and is majoring in child psychology.

A special thanks to you, Karen, for bringing such an honor to your parents and Oak Hill.

Would you like to hear what happens when a city girl goes camping? For the past five years I have resided with woods virtually at my back door and have not ventured into them once. This year in order to please my children, we rented a camping trailer and journeyed to a wooded site on Lake George, N.Y.

The nine-hour journey was plagued by a heavy rainstorm, the car over-heating several times and an inexperienced trailer driver.

With the grace of God and the help of several service attendants, we arrived safely, in spite of our dilemmas and our dog's trying to bite the attendant at each toll booth.

Our first night was terrible. The camper became tilted during the night because of wet ground, the commode overflowed because of a clogged drain and the mattress on my bed kept slipping off because of the angle of the camper.

By the second day we were so exasperated we were ready to pack it in, but our experiences in getting there had not quite worn off.

The beauty of Lake George and its many attractions filled most of our waking hours and lessened the shock of living in a camper, which I compare to living in a sardine can.

By the week's end we had come to an agreeable solution as to who would sleep on the top bunk. My husband was the only problem he encountered with the bed was that when he tried to turn on his side his nose would rub against the camper roof.

By comparison our return trip was uneventful and we came to the conclusion that camping is nice for those who like it, but in order to maintain our sanity, future vacations will be planned with a less adventurous flair.
